The Toledo Evening Bee.

VOL. XVII. NO. 176. TOLEDO, OHIO, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1892. LAST EDITION. TWO CENTS.

IN THE BEE TO-DAY

THE WEATHER.

U. S. Department of Agriculturt,
Weather Bureau,
Toledo, O., Nov. 15, 1892.

The storm central in the extreme northwest yesterday morning has moved eastward and now covers the entire country west of the Mississippi river with its center north of Minnesota. It will continue its easterly movement, and pass over the lakes to-morrow. A second storm of considerable energy developed over the south Atlantic coast yesterday afternoon and is moving northward to the coast, where it will cause gales and rains to-day.

The area of high pressure is central over the extreme northeastern portion of the country and will have no effect on the general weather conditions now prevailing.

The general weather conditions this morning are very much unsettled and cloudy weather prevails over almost the entire country with light rain or snow falling at scattered stations. Conditions are very favorable for rain or snow in any portion of the country to-day.

Local forecast for Toledo and vicinity for next 36 hours: Generally cloudy weather with occasional showers, slight changes in temperature.

FOLDING BEDS

You Can Do Almost Anything

With our Gosben folding bed. There used to be an idea that two into one wouldn't go; this bed upsets the notion completely. It doesn't, like the chameleon, change its color, but it does change its character, and it is as handsome as a bed at night as it is as a book-case in the day-time. It is one of the happiest combinations of modern ingenuity, and in an instant it turns your sleeping apartment into a handsomely appointed library. Perhaps you have an idea that this double advantage carries with it a double cost. It does not. Call and see it and learn the price.

JURY SECURED

In the Manchester Council Bribery Case.

The Opening Statements Made by Counsel.

The State Will Introduce An Interview With Manchester.

New Line of Defense Will Be Adopted.

Mr. Manchester's Knowledge of Any Conspiracy to Solicit Bribes Denied.

When the Bee went to press yesterday all but one juryman had been secured, with two peremptory challenges yet to be made in the Manchester case. After a delay of half an hour Charles H. Pixley responded to a summons, and took a seat on the the jury.

Mr. Pixley had formed an opinion which he stated would require evidence to remove. The defense submitted a challenge for cause, which was sustained, and Mr. Pixley was dismissed.

Court then adjourned until 9 o'clock this morning, when C. R. Bowen, a regular juror, was called. Mr. Bowen had read the newspaper reports of the former trials and from that had formed an opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the parties who had been tried, but not as to the defendant on trial.

Mr. Kinney asked the juror whether by reading the newspaper reports he had learned that the state had been endeavoring to prove a conspiracy, to which Mr. Bowen replied that he did; also that he had an opinion as to the existence of such a conspiracy, but not relative to any one man, or the man on trial. He stated that in would require evidence to remove his opinion. The defense submitted a challenge for cause, which was overruled.

Mr. Southard put the same questions to Mr. Pollock, as to the conspiracy, but that gentleman stated that he knew nothing of the existence of a conspiracy; that all he knew was what he read of the case before the present term of court convened.

The state exercised its peremptory right as to W. H. Hall, and Henry C. Bay, a regular juror, was called.

The defense exercised its last peremptory challenge and dismissed Mr. Upton.

H. C. Nicholas was called.

On examination by the state Mr. Nicholas stated that he had a conversation with Mr. Manchester, within the month in which the defendant stated that he preferred to be tried by regular jurors, by men that knew him; hoped that his friends and neighbors would be on the jury; also, that Mr. Nicholas would be on the jury.

The state submitted a challenge for cause.

The challenge was overruled.

This completed the panel which consisted of the following named gentlemen: G. W. Hathaway, H. C. Nicholas, H. C. Bay, C. R. Bowen, H. A. Pilliod, James Pollock, Wm. H. Hook, J. W. Potts, Benj. Ranger, A. Nesbit, Fred Vandeberg, H. F. Van Fleet.

Prosecutor Barber read the indictment, and then proceeded to make the opening statement of the case to the jury. He related the story of organization of the combination of councilmen from the time of the first meeting to the time of the indictment, stating that the state would prove that this combination was formed to obtain compensation from corporations for legislative influence to aid the passage of ordinances of pecuniary interests.

That this combination and conspiracy was in full operation when the defendant cast his lot with the others.

Mr. Southard stated that the defense would object to the introduction of any evidence prior to the time when it is charged that the defendant became connected with the alleged combination.

The court held that no ruling could be made on a statement to the jury.

Mr. Barber continued in his statement that at the third meeting of the combination Mr. Rutherford suggested that Mr. Manchester be taken into the combination. Mr. Rutherford was directed to invite Mr. Manchester. That at the fifth meeting held at Neuendorf's store Mr. Manchester was present. That he stated the prosecution of such an object was dangerous business, and that he did not intend to do anything that would compromise himself and family. That at the meeting at Tanner's store, Swain and Manchester declared that the people had began to talk, and that they did not intend to further oppose the Monroe street pavement, and they all agreed to vote as they pleased.

He passed on to the club house meeting, and the resolution adopted on that occasion to vote against the Pluto ordinance, which came up at the meeting of council that evening. The ordinance that night was laid on the table, on motion presented by Mr. Manchester. That on June 20, in the council, a motion was made to take the ordinance out of the regular place on the schedule, which was lost. A motion to table the ordinance, on motion of Mr. Gill, was passed on a vote of the ten present at the Fisher club house.

Mr. Barber then referred to the interview at the Pluto Oil office, which ensued between Mr. Geo. Lorenz, of the Pluto Oil company, and the councilmen on June 21, the day after the council had recessed, on laying the Pluto ordinance on the table. Then as to Tanner's proposition to deliver eleven votes to pass the Pluto ordinance for $5,500.

Nothing has yet been introduced in the other cases as to Mr. Manchester's connection with the case.

Mr. Barber stated that the state would introduce a stenographic report of an interview between Mr. Lorenz and Manchester; that Lorenz sent for Manchester, and when he arrived, said to him, "Manchester, Tanner, Gill and Daly have been here and made me a flat, outright proposition to pass the ordinance for $5,500. Now I want to know whether we can rely on what they say." To this Mr. Barber stated, Manchester replied that Tanner and Daly knew what they were talking about; that it was pretty hard to tell about that; that he said, "When you see a man vote against his own interest, then you can tell whether you can rely upon him or not. Men come to me every day, and men for whom I did a great deal of work. Wm. Peters came to me and urged me to vote for your ordinance. If you can make arrangements to have the ordinance passed this evening I think it will go through all right. It need not necessarily cost you $5,500, or $55,000, or nothing."

Mr. Southard made this statemene to the jury for the defense.

Mr. Manchester read of the possible introduction of the Pluto ordinance in the council, and he made up his mind at that time to oppose it, and all others of similar ordinance, and so publicly expressed himself; and that he maintained this position all through. That he never knew of a combination in the council; that the defense would not endeavor to disprove the existence of a combination, but would prove that Mr. Manchester never was connected in any way with any combination to procure a cent of compensation, illegally or any other way; that he never knew of the existence of any such a combination, and learned for the first time at the first meeting he was present, held at Neuendorf's store, of the illegal object of the combination. On this evening he came down from the council chamber, after attending committee meeting on Thursday evening. When he was standing on the street waiting for a car to go home, Rutherford asked him to step down to Neuendorf's store for a little while. That he went down, supposedly to see Mr. Neuendorf; that when he arrived there were a number of persons present; that Mr. Neuendorf had stated that he had been approached by officers of the Pluto Oil company and offered money for the passage of the ordinance; that Mr. Manchester stated that it was illegal to accept money to influence an official vote, and suggested that if the Pluto Oil company wanted to pay for the passage of the ordinance why not let them pay the money into the city treasury. That Mr. Manchester was not requested to join any combination; that his position against the ordinance was so defined that it was not necessary to take him into any combination to prevent its passage; that he came down town on the day of the club house meeting; that he knew nothing of the intended meeting; that he met Mr. Gill on the street, who asked him to go out, and that he went through courtesy; that before this he knew nothing of the intention of such a meeting, and that it was not intended that he (Manchester) should be present, and that his presence at that meeting was accidental. He took no part in any discussion at that meeting. At the third meeting, at Neuendorf's store, he received no invitation, but learend of it and went, but only stayed a minute; that learning what the object of the meeting was, stated that he would have nothing to do with those who intended to take money for their vote.

That the defense would show that he was sent for by the Pluto Oil company; that if such a combination did exist and and that its members had agreed to do certain things for money, evidence would show that Mr. Manchester's strong opposition against the ordinance could be used by the combination to obstruct the ordinance, while it was not needed to pass.

After a brief recess ex-Councilman Ransom P. Swain was sworn and put on the stand by the state. It was then discovered that Mr. Ranger, a member of the jury, was not in his seat. The bailiff was sent out in search of him, but was unable to find trace of the missing juror.

"Issue an attachment and bring him in forthwith," said the court.

Mr. Barber suggested that it was very probable that Mr. Ranger had misunderstood the order of the court, and went home for noon, instead of taking a little recess.

The attachment was issued, placed in the hands of the sheriff at 11:45 o'clock. The court then suspended until the afternoon session.

When court adjourned at noon to-day Deputy Sheriff Horner was out searching for Benjamin Ranger, the missing juror, with an attachment. Mr. Ranger responded to his name at roll call after dinner. The jury being present, Mr. Swain was called to the stand.

Mr. Swain qualified as to his election to the council and named the members of that body of which he was a member. He testified that he served on different committees with the defendant, and that the committee meetings were held at the council chamber. He testified that there were meetings held outside of the council chamber at which Mr. Manchester was present. He testified that the first meeting of this kind was held at Charles Neuendorf's store, May 19, on Thursday night between 9 and 12 o'clock. At this meeting there were present Messrs. Neuendorf, Tanner, Gill, Daly, Doner, Schmuhl, James Paskins and Rutherford. Mr. Barber put the question as to what was said and done at that meeting. The defense objected on the ground that Mr. Manchester was not present.

Prosecutor Barber stated that it rested with the state to prove that a conspiracy lived and existed and then that Mr. Manchester joined. That the state intended to prove that a conspiracy was formed and and existed and evidence would be introduced to show how the combination was organized and who its members were; that if Mr. Manchester joined later on, it would be necessary to fist show that there was something for him to join. Mr. Barber then read authorities on the subject. (He quoted Greenleaf on Evidence, Sec. 111a), the celebrated anarchist case, August Spies v. State of Illinois, 122, Illinois page 1.

The court ruled that the state would have to first show a prima facie case, connecting the defendant with a conspiracy, showing what was said and done in the defendant's presence before it would be permitted to show what was said and done in his client's absence. This done the evidnce could be introduced to show what was said and done before and after his connection with the conspiracy. Mr. Swain then testified as to the first meeting he attended at which Mr. Manchester was present. This meeting was held at Neuendorf's store in June; that there were present Doner, Rutherford, Daly, Manchester, Gill, Tanner, Taylor, Schmuhl. The last two he was not certain. At this meeting he testified that Mr. Doner stated to Mr. Manchester that the object of the meeting was to combine together for each other's financial benefit; that when parties presented certain ordinances, they had agreed not to oppose in any manner until it had passed the board of aldermen.

CASS CAN NOW GO.

Columbus, O., Nov. 15.—A pardon from President Harrison for Charles Cass, a United States prisoner from Mobile, Ala., has been received at the penitentiary. Cass was serving two years for violating the postal laws.

OHIO'S GREAT VOTE.

It Has Greatly Alarmed the Republicans.

The Legislature May Be Democratic.

Had the Recent Vote Been for a Legislation They Would Have Been Skinned.

Columbus, O., Nov. 15.—The republican campaign managers have been so busy trying to figure out a plurality for their state ticket that they are just awakening to the fact that there is a strong probability of the next Ohio legislature being democratic. In view of the sweeping democratic gains at this election it is very doubtful whether the republicans will be able to recover their strength sufficiently to secure a majority in both houses in the next general assembly. Estimated on the vote for secretary of state this year, the democrats will control the next legislature by a majority of three in the senate and one in the house. In other words, had the people voted for members of the legislature this year and the result been the same as it is to-day there would be 54 democrats and 53 republicans in the house, while the senate would have stood 17 democrats and 14 republicans. Chairman Dick, Secretary Mailoy, Joseph P. Smith, ex-Chairman Wm. M. Hahn and others were engaged last night in making calculations as to the political complexion of the next general assembly. They arrived at the deductions already indicated, basing their calculations on the vote cast for S. M. Taylor, republican candidate for secretary of state. As an offset to the facts shown by the figures the republican managers expect the situation to be so changed next fall that they will carry Muskingum and Hancock counties surely and possibly Cuyahoga, Knox and others which are regarded doubtful.

In addition, they expected to carry the Thirty-third senatorial district, which gave a democratic plurality of only 405 at this election. This would give them control of the legislature, with a fair working majority. As usual, Hamilton county, with her ten representatives and three senators, cuts the greatest figure in the result, and should it go democratic the republicans will lose the legislature. There is something more in this conference than a mere looking to a republican victory next year. It is understood on very good authority that the purpose of this early movement by a faction of the republican party means the gobbling of a United senatorship for one of their friends. Senator Sherman has spoken several times to his closest councellors of a desire on his part to leave public life. And the result of the recent election has made him even more indifferent than before toward public labors. He can not reward his friends with offices under a democratic administration, and it is fully appreciated that in an open fight in a senatorial year the Foraker crowd would not again be beaten, especially under existing circumstances. If Sherman should resign now, nothing could prevent the election of Foraker to the vacancy. With the Foraker men off their guard the Shermanites could capture the nominating conventions next year and pave the way for the lection to the senate of Charles Foster or Governor McKinley and then Sherman would resign. That is the scheme.

Following are the figures of the republican managers showing the complexion of the various counties and districts from a legislative standpoint according to the calculations based on the vote for S. M. Taylor:

$250,000,000.

Much Money Is To Be Left in This Country Next Year.

London, Nov. 15.—The Financial News says it thinks that the long expected boom in American railway securities may come now at any hour. The American speculators, it declares, have not yet grasped the potential source of traffic expansion that will be afforded by the Chicago world's fair. There is nothing extravagant in the estimate that $250,000,000 of foreign money will be left in America as the harvest of the exhibition. Americans will be literally burdened with money seeking investment.

GOOD WHILE IT LASTS.

St. Marys, O., Nov. 15.—(Special.)—George Haller's general store at Spencerville, north of this city, was broken into last night and robbed of several hundred dollars worth of goods.

OH! IT WAS GLORIOUS, EVEN RIPROAR-I-OUS, WOOD'S CELEBRATION.

How They Did Whoop It Up, Down at the "Green"—

First in a Life-Time; Had To Be Seen.

To Those Democrats 'Twas Something New,

But They Cheered All the Louder, and Cheered Ritchie, Too.

They Cheered to the Echo, and They Cheered in the Wet, and If It Hadn't Come Morning They'd Been Cheering Yet.

Bowling Green never saw a more enthusiastic gathering than turned out Monday night to celebrate the election of Byron F. Ritchie to congress from the Ninth Ohio district.

The election had been won in the face of the biggest odds, and against the most gigantic corruption fund that was ever used in an Ohio district. Still Byron F. Ritchie had won.

Wood county had done her part in the campaign, and Wood county justly came in for much of the glory.

At an early hour the people began to arrive from the neighboring townships, and when 7 o'clock had arrived the streets were full, regardless of a drizzling rain that poured down on the people.

It did not dampen their ardor.

The democrats, and many republicans, too, were out.

In the language of the democratic poet laureate of Bowling Green, the rain of plenty, or plent of horn, it's hard to tell which, was there in all its numerosity.

A street parade took place preceding the jollification, and the manner in which it was conducted showed plainly that Wood county knows how to celebrate a democratic victory.

The transparencies were both numerous and to the point. First came: G. W. Gahan, postmaster. I guess not.

Then: A picture of Ashley, with a very downcast look, and the expressive remarks, "Where am I at?"

E. W. Poe's picture was beautifully embellished with the sentiment: "A man without a residence," and it had a local significance well known to readers of the Bee.

The democratic pyramid, and a banner which told the republicans to "pay their bets" next greeted the eye.

The best picture of Byron Ritchie yet seen in the campaign was underlined with the words: "A man without a barrel," and it told a truth in the same melodious way that Byron told it himself on the stump.

It was an unvarnished truth; a democratic axiom.

"Uncle Sam is proud of his boys" created cheers all along the line.

Benny leaving and Grover entering the white house was cheered to the echo as it passed in review in front of the Ross house.

"Soldiers not afraid of democratic patriots" was a transparency much cheered by the veterans who followed Hancock and Steedman through the war.

"America is for freer commerce" touched a chord among the thinking people of the city.

The Salt river packet, the fireworks and the poetic turn of the transparencies were all greatly admired. One banner in bold type said:

McKinley Tin
Couldn't Win.

While another read as follows:

Disturb not is slumber:
Let the G. O. P. rest
With Bill McKinley's bill
Upon its frozen breast.

As showing the feeling of many of the voters of the congressional district one banner read:

"Good-bye, Jim, you old Knownothing."

Another said:

"Not only a solid south, but a solid north."

After the parade had passed through the main streets, and the pyrotechnic display had been greatly admired, the people pressed toward the court house, where the speaking of the evening was to take place. Long before the hour for speaking had arrived the court room was filled.

It was the outpouring of Wood county's democracy, and it was augmented by republicans who had grown tired of paying tribute to protection idols, and had turned out to welcome the man who downed Jim Ashley.

Among the prominent Bowling Green people, and people from Wood county, were the following: J. W. Canary, ex-Sheriff G. M. Brown, Capt. A. W. Adams, L. C. Cole, F. A. Baldwin, Hon. A. R Campbell, Chris Lehman, Mr. Smith, Mr. Neiman, Seth Fairchilds, W. R. Revels, Chas. Hunter, marshal of the parade; Sheriff Bryant, Jack Campbell, M. E. O'Connor, John Crane, Geo. Smith, Nicholas Bauman, George Foot, John Aple, Jack Watts, George Sutton, and many others.

After the boys had tooted their horns, and there was a glorious sound of victory in those toots, Mr. Frank A. Baldwin stepped to the front of the platform and addressed the audience. His remarks were timely and brim full of democracy, and they were cheered again and again.

He paid a high tribute to the national victory, but when the name of Byron Ritchie was mentioned it looked for a time as if the boys would shake the shingles off the roof.

And it was glorious, too, and those from Lucas county present joined merrily in the glad refrain.

Mr. Baldwin said the democrats had borne the blunt of battle for years, and now that victory was here they proposed to jollify, not over the fallen victims, but over their own success, honestly and squarely won after a campaign of education and fairness with which it was a pleasure to be connected.

The democratic party was a magnanimous party, and while they were proud of their victory, they did not want anybody to think they were lording it over their fallen citizens who were now and had been laboring under a cloud.

With remarks fitting to the occasion he introduced Frank E. Wright, of Toledo, as the man who nominated Byron F. Ritchie for congress in the city of Bowling Green only a few weeks ago. Mr. Wright was greeted with round after round of applause, and won for himself, as he always does, much merited applause.

Mr. Wright told the citizens of Wood county that he came up from Toledo to help them jollify.

He wished to congratulate them upon the magnificent success achieved by the democracy and for the excellent part taken by the citizens of Wood county in bringing victory to the democratic banners.

Mr. Wright briefly pictured a retrospect of the campaign, bringing out its salient features and said the democratic party had won the grandest triumph of its life.

He referred to Grover Cleveland as the greatest democrat and wisest statesman of the republic and one who had inspired the whole American people with confidence and admiration. (Great and continued applause.)

Mr. Wright said that the people who had voted for Cleveland voted intelligently and form a standpoint of patriotic duty.

They voted to lower the taxes upon the necessities of life.

They voted against monopolies and trusts.

They voted for honest money.

They voted to rebuke the renomination of a president by a horde of office-holders.

They voted for the peace and prosperity of the south and against the stirrers up of sectional strife.

They voted to make the pension list a roll of honor and not a bonanza for pension agents.

The voted against a sale of the presidency and congress to a ring of millionaire manufacturers.

And they voted in no uncertain tones and their overwhelming numbers proclaimed to the world that this government is and will remain a government by the people, of the people and for the people. (long continued cheering.)

Mr. Wright said it was with a special pride and pleasure that he now addressed the citizens of Wood county. In this very town, only six short weeks ago, in the congressional convention of the Ninth district, he had the honor to present a candidate whose election over the vast republican majority in the district he had ventured to phophecy and predict.

The enemy had met this nomination with derision. Our friends at the time, thought the fight hopeless.

From the first the democratic candidate grew strong in the hearts of the people, and on the 8th day of November the voters arose in their majesty and endorsed him as their choice and the prediction, to the amazement of the boodlers and plutocrats, was fulfilled. (Applause.)

With what sense of pleasure was it then to the speaker and to the hosts of good citizens present that he could now say that they could see and hear a live democratic congressman in the person of Byron F. Ritchie, the man who defeated hte great political acrobat, James M. Ashley, and who transformed the so-called great impeacher into the actual great impeached.

Mr. Wright was at his best and he closed amid great applause.

Mr. Baldwin again took the stand and tried to keep the democratic enthusiasm down long enough for the speakers to be heard. But the boys were impatient. They wanted to hear Ritchie and when his name was announced such a din as was raised would do Lucas county democrats good to hear.

It was a yard-wide-all-wool-low-tariff yell, and it started the stops on the windows.

Byron F. Ritchie, the democratic congressman from the Ninth republican (Uncle Gerry) district was equal to the occasion.

Byron's heart was in his effort and when he had finished, every man who heard him—and who had voted for him—was glad of it, and those who had not, were sorry.

Byron's great big heart was overflowing with gratitude to the people who had helped elect him, and no one could look upon that honest face without admiring it.

He spoke in substance as follows:

Fellow Citizens of Wood County:

We meet to-night to celebrate a glorious victory won. Never before in the history of political parties were the issues between them more sharply drawn, and so well defined, and never have the people spoken with such emphasis as on Tuesday last.

It was a victory pregnant with significance.

It means economy in governmental affairs. (Cheers).

It means a reduction of the tariff, and prompt relief to the masses from taxation which is excessive and unjust. (Loud cheers).

It will forever divorce our elections from federal supervision, as proposed by the "Force bill.

It means fairness to capital and justice to labor. (Tremendous cheers).

Under the administration of President Cleveland, every interest in the land is safe. What kind of a president he will make is evidenced by what kind of a president he has made. (Cheers).

Fearless in his thought, he is bold in its utterance.

Republicans, you were warned to come in out of the November storm. It is not yet too late. (Laughter).

The condition that confronts you reminds me of a story. It is told on one of those traveling doctors, who know nothing of medicine or surgery, and little of anything except how to impose upon the public.

Two ladies called upon him at his magnificent hotel quarters, with a little child suffering with throat trouble. He said to the ladies, "Ladies, I wish you would remain in this room while I operate upon the child's throat; it is a severe operation, which I am about to perform, the child might suffer pain, and its cries might affect you. You stay in this room, while I work in the next."

Taking the child into an adjoining room he took out his knife to operate upon the throat, of the child, but his hand slipped and the child's throat was cut from ear to ear.

Returning to the room the ladies occupied, with a scraping bow, he said: "The ladies can come now; the child is dead." (Laughter.)

Do you see the application, my republican friends? (Great cheering.)

Let me say a word or two personal to myself, and I am done. I wish to thank the democracy of Wood county for the gallant support they gave their nominee for congress, and I wish to thank my republican friends also for the aid they gave me.

I shall undertake to represent the people who have honored me—democrats and republicans alike—to the very best of my feeble ability.

By devotion to duty and faithful attention to this district's interests, I hope to merit and retain the confidence and respect of all.

For those who were unfriendly to me, I have the kindest feeling, now.

Much did I regret that a public journal in Toledo saw fit to assail my personal character.

To send its articles into my home, to my wife and little child, was cruel, unjust, and unkind. I bore it with a patient smug. Have I not now the right to rejoice that, by the silent voice of my fellow citizens, my vindication has come in the repudiation by the people, of scurrility in political campaigns. (You bet you have.)

From the bottom of my heart I thank the people for the honor conferred upon me. My sole ambition is to be duty's servant—to do my duty faithfully and well. And I promise here and now that no constituent, rich or poor, shall have cause from any act of mine to regret his choice and that no marred veteran of the war need ever fear the want of aid from me in securing his just deserts.

I thank you once again, my friends. Good night. (Cheers that lasted fully five minutes.)

Mr. Baldwin next called upon Democratic chairman Max M. Eppstein, of Toledo. Mr. Eppstein made a most favorable speech and was loudly cheered. His keen insight into things democratic and his knowledge of campaign work was readily appreciated by his hearers.

It remained for Hon. A. L. Campbell to make the witty speech of the evening. It was brim-full of good things and the only regretable feature was that he stopped so soon.

L. C. Cole followed with an interesting discussion and A. W. Machen, of Toledo told in his plain business way, what a victory the people of the United States had won. Mr. Machen's remarks were very interesting, and his sagacity of judgment plainly proved that the democratic party needs to put more Machens to the front.

John W. Canary, the man whom the republican papers of the state take pleasure in referring to as the sweet singer of Wood county, closed the evening jollification by a speech and it was as pointed as it was in sympathy with the occasion.

Notes.

Everybody whooped it up for Max Eppstein.

Frank E. Wright's address was a very happy one.

Ex-Sheriff Brown wore a Grover Cleveland smile.

L. C. Cole is one of the democratic hustlers of the day.

Bowling Green will be down to Toledo to help us jollify.

Chris Lehman is one of the democrats it is a pleasure to meet.

John W. Canary is the happiest man in seven states, politically.

Captain A. W. Adams, of North Baltimore, enjoyed the proceedings.

One more campaign like this and Wood county will be safely democratic.

August Machen is down on the list. He will stump this district two years hence.

Fred Foot, of Tontogany, lent his services and presence to make the affair a success.

After the democrats get through with Bowling Green they are going after Tontogany.

Chas. Hunter, as marshal, was all that could be asked. Mud did not interfere with his duties.

W. R. Revels, an old Toledo boy, is doing a great business at the "Green" and is just as good a democrat as he ever was.

L. C. Cole and his estimable wife entertained the Lucas county delegation in royal style at their elegant new home. Lucas county will return the compliment at its first opportunity.

A. R. Campbell made a bit when he said that Byron was a poor man. "I know he's a poor man," said Campbell, "for I tried to borrow $2 of him at Pemberville and he only had 25 cents."

A MURDER

Startles the People of Homestead Again.

One Workman Is Killed by Another in a Very Mysterious Way.

Homestead, Pa., Nov. 15.—One nonunionist shot and almost instantly killed another last night in a bunk house of the Carnegie steel works here. The murderer is Max Newman, of New York, and the victim is supposed to be a man named Maynard. About 2 o'clock this morning the occupants of the houses were aroused by hearing two shots fired, followed by a cry of agony and then deathlike stillness. While the police were searching, a man walked into the watchhouse of the mill police with a revolver in his hand and said: "I want to give myself up. I have shot a man."

It was Newman and he conducted the officers to the lodging house where the victim was lying on the floor. "There he is. I think he is a striker," remarked Newman.

A physician was called, but when he reached the mill the injured man was dead. A mill pass and check found on his person denoted that he had been a mill worker, but none knew him to positively identify him. Newman was taken to Pittsburg jail this morning to await the action of the coroner. He said: "I came from New York and have been working in the 32-inch mill.

"While sleeping last night I was suddenly awakened by a severe blow in the face. I sat up, but was knocked backward by another blow. I jumped from the bed, seized my pants and ran around to the other side of the bunk. As I did so, I drew my revolver. My assailant dodged around after me, and I thought I detected a gleam of steel in his hand.

"I cried to him to stand back or I would shoot. As he reached me I fired at the ceiling. This man the closed on me and struck me a stunning blow in the face.

"I fired and without a word the stranger dropped. When he fell, I ran out and gave myself up. I don't know who he is, and don't recall ever seeing him before."

The bullet entered Maynard's brain, from behind the left.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Cargoes were scarce to-day, but all business was done on the basis of 2 3-4 cents for wheat to Buffalo.

Buffalo.

Buffalo, Nov. 15.—Coal freights quiet and unchanged. Charters—Samoa, Minneapolis, Sandiego, Chicago, 75 cents.

Low Water.

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 15.—Water in the canal to-day is only 13 feet 10 inches.

In Collision.

Amherstburg, Nov. 15.—Schooner Minnie Davis was sunk by collision with the schooner Hunter Savidge last night about a mile and a half from Pt. Mowia light. The Davis was loaded with coal and went down in 21 feet of water. Her crew all escaped from the wreck.

Close of Navigation.

Cleveland, Nov. 15.—Frozen iron ore at Ashland and the cessation in grain shipments from Duluth will tend to cause an early close of navigation.

Owners of the steamer Sauber could not get 4 cents on wheat from Duluth and were to take ore at a dollar thirty. No Marquettt ore is offered this morning, but on a few cargoes from Escanaba 90c can be had.

Winter Quarters.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—The fleet of the Inter-Ocean Transportation company, engaged in carrying ore from the Escanaba to South Chicago, is now going into winter quarters.

GONE TO HIS DEATH.

Thomas Neill Cream Dies on the Scaffold,

For the Known Murder of Three Women.

How Many More He Has Killed With his Pills of Poison Will Never Be Known.

London, Nov. 15.—The execution of Thomas Neill Cream took place within the walls of Newgate gaol this morning.

The murderer can scarcely be said to have been resigned to his fate, yet he had little hope of a reprieve.

Last night he retired to bed at 11 o'clock and slept for some time soundly. He was awakened at 6 o'clock and partook of a light breakfast.

The prison chaplain called at the condemned cell before the meal was finished, but the prisoner paid but slight heed to his ministrations.

At 7:45 the hangman, with the governor and deputy sheriff visited the cell, the sheriff having, in accordance with the law, demanded the man's body previously. Cream was then taken from the cell to the pinioning room, where his arms were bound behind him with the leather thongs.

From thence the procession was formed to the place of execution, one or two warders and the gaol surgeon joining the warders at this point.

A warden preceded the prisoner and one walked on either side, the hangman following directly behind. Cream was taciturn and reserved, showing that he had steeled himself to meet his fate without any display of emotion.

Emerging from the warm corridors of the jail, Cream shivered when he came in contact with the cold chilly blast of the morning air and the solemn toll of the bell of Saint Sepulchers church seemed for a moment to discompose him, but in that instant he proceeded again walking erect and firmly.

Going across the prison yard within a small cage-like enclosure, through prisoners walk, the scaffold with all its horrid paraphernalia suddenly burst upon Cream's view.

He shut his eyes for a few steps but opening them again walked firmly towards his place of death without a tremor.

The scaffold itself is simply a small shed in the corner of the yard. The door is at one side and through this the party entered, the remaining portion of the shed being half boarded up so that from the man's waist downward was hidden from all except those within the shed.

At this time the chaplain read in feeling tones a portion of the burial service of the Church of England and continued so doing to the last moment. Once within the shed Cream was conducted by the hangman underneath the beam of the scaffold over which the noose of the rope hung in readiness for use.

Stooping deftly the hangman pinioned the culprit's legs with leather straps and then placed the white cap over his face and the noose around his neck, drawing the loop so that the eyelet hole came close to the convict's left ear.

Then going quickly to the corner of the shed the hangman drew the bolts.

The hollow flooring underneath Cream gave way and with a jerk he fell the full extent of the hangman's rope.

A slight quivering of the cord, one or two spasmodic jerks and the most callous poisoner of modern times had paid the penalty of his brutal crimes.

An inquest was subsequently held in conformity with the law, when the usual verdict was given.

Mr. Waters, the solicitor for the prisoner at his trial, was unable to obtain his legal expenses and was accordingly driven to the expedient of selling the man's effects and telling stories and tales about him in order to recoup himself. He professes to have what he declares to be a confession, but the police deny that the prisoner has told him anything in reference to the English murders. Cream may have made a statement in reference to the American crimes, and Waters is certain to publish something of the kind at once, but even this the police seek to discredit.

The wearing of the spectacles seemed rather to conceal any expression of the eye. His reddish brown beard had grown and materially changed the appearance of his face from that of the clean shaven, heavily mustached man of the popular pictures.

His hair, very slight and thin on the top of his head, deepened into dark brown and hung straight at the sides. He wore a sober colored morning coat and vest, with white sailor's knot tie, and clean linen. A drop of eight inches was allowed. Death was almost instantaneous. After being cut down the usual inquest was held within the prison, and the body then buried in a grave filled with quicklime in the northwest corner of the jail yard.

Cream, although convicted of the murder of but three women, is probably guilty of more crimes than even Jack the Ripper, and in every case so far recorded his homicidal efforts have been directed against the same class of women as those operated upon by his illustrious but unknown rival. Several years ago he was convicted of murder in the state of Illinois, and upon being pardoned by Gov. Fifer, resumed his old ways in Quebec, and from that place betook himself to this city, where justice has at last been meted out to him.

PRESIDENT HARRISON.

He May Not Return to Indianapolis.

Believed That He Will Take Up His Home Near His Children.

Washington, Nov. 15.—In view of President Harrison's approaching retirement from public life, there has been much gossip in official circles of late regarding his probable intentions.

Although he has a comfortable home and many friends in Indianapolis, is is thought that the death of Mrs. Harrison would render a return to the old scenes fraught with remembrances of the past a source of pain rather than consolation.

This belief is strengthened by the fact that none of his children are ever again likely to take up their residence at Indianapolis.

Russel Harrison is a resident of Helena, Mont., although his business engagements have kept him in New York for the past few years.

Mrs. McKee, the president's married daughter, will make her future home in Boston. Her husband, J. R. McKee, has removed to that city with the intention of remaining permanently.

Some think he will, when he leaves the White House, locate near his daughter and son-in-law.

The president's affection for his little grandson, Bennie McKee, is well-known, and it is not believed that he could be happy away from him.

What is the sense or propriety of an English earl traveling "secretly" as it were? Nobody will harm him and usually an earl is not conspicuous to an alarming degree. Still so they come. The Scotch Earl of Crawford and Balcarres is visiting New York incog. He is a tall, stout, fine looking man, with a brogue nearly as broad as himself. He's going west to hunt.

W. F. WILSON.

A Clever Boy Who Visits the Marshes and Who Is Known All Over the Land.

A day in the marsh with Billy Wilson is to have a day of real sport. Billy generally takes two guns and four dogs so as to supply all his friends whom he meets on the way, and the last time he visited the creek he shot Fred McWithy, of Flint, to a tie. They both shot half an hour and neither one of them hit the target, although Billy declares that all his bullets went through a knot hole in the board.

Mr. Wilson is well known all over the United States, having made parachute jumps from California to the Atlantic coast.

Billy is game, and when any sport is going on is always ready to stand a tap. He pulled off a nice little pile on his friend Corbett, and pinned his faith to Grover Cleveland.

Billy is now at the head of the "Cottage," where his lobby has taken on a very professional air.

A GENUINE THANKSGIVING

For the Chicago Anarchist, Oscar Neebe.

Authoritative Statement That Gov. Fifer

Will Pardon Him on November 24—His Brother Receives the Welcome Tidings.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—The Herald this morning says: From a source absolutely authoritative the statement comes that Gov. Fifer will place in the hands of Warden Dement, of Joliet prison, on the morning of November 24 next, Thanksgiving day, a pardon for Oscar Neebe, the anarchist who was convicted of complicity in the Haymarket riot in 1886 and sentenced to 15 years imprisonment. The pardon has already been prepared. Three days ago Louis Neebe, of this city was told that his brother's long imprisonment was almost over and to be prepared to accompany him home Thanksgiving day. The welcome news was authentic, coming directly from the executive chamber at Springfield. During the past two months tremendous pressure has been brought to bear on the governor in which old and valued friends, both political and personal have been prominent. In addition to this were numberless petitions signed by nearly every prominent citizen in Chicago. The fact that the testimony on which Neebe was convicted is very weak is also said to have influenced the governor in his action.

LATE FINDLAY FACTS.

Findlay, Nov. 15.—Findlay jubilant. Democracy will have an old time jollification to-morrow evening over their great victory.

Frank Edgington, one of the bet known residents of Portage township, was buried yesterday. He was a justice of the peace for many years. He was found dead in bed.

G. W. Waltermire wants a divorce from his wife, Catharine, to whom he was married in March, 1890. Cause, gross neglect of duty and leaving his bed and board.

Common pleas court convened again today with Judge Johnson on the bench.

The Marion house receiver's sale was confirmed in common pleas court yesterday.

G. W. Smith a worthy young democrat is an applicant for a position in the railway mail service. He just passed his examination at Cincinnati.

The democrats of Geneva, southwest of this city, jollify in good style to-night.

Ex-Sheriff Cusor denies that he is a candidate for the postoffice.

The Findlay Labor and Trades assembly which at one time was much the strongest labor organization in the city, after an existence of over three years, has peacefully passed away. Dissatisfaction among its members is given as the cause.

Mrs. John Moeford, wife of Deputy Sheriff Moeford, was buried yesterday in Maple Grove. Her age was 27 years and her disease consumption.

The following couples were married yesterday by Justice Dunn:

Mr. Geo. F. Mann to Miss Leanna Gorby.

Mr. Lewis Loche to Miss Mary Shippard.

Mr W. H. Teal to Miss Martha Sherman.

J. C. Cronin to Miss Vada, daughter of Rev. J. A. Swindhast, of North Baltimore, by the bride's father.

Jacob Lochr, a wealthy farmer residing just east of the village of Van Buren, is testing his farm for gas and oil on his own hook. The first well was a salt water producer. The second is in the sand, but the result is not known yet.

A branch of the Central Labor union has been organized in this city. Rembrandt Rowe elected president; Frank M. Freece, elected secretary.

NATIONAL CONVENTION

Of the Non-Partisan Temperance Women.

Routine Business Disposed of and Encouraging Reports Presented.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 15.—The third annual convention of the Non-Partisan National Women's Christian Temperance Union opened here this afternoon. The attendance is larger than at any of the preceding gatherings, and the assemblage promises to be the most notable that has yet been held under the non-partisan banner. The convention will remain in session for three days, one feature of the program being an address by Mrs. Annie M. Wittenmeyer, the first president of the N. W. C. T. U. Mrs. Burrington, of Belfast, Me., will present a paper on manual training, and an exhaustive discussion of the subject will follow. To-day's session was opened with devotional exercises, following which the routine business of the convention was disposed of, and the reports of the national officers presented, the latter showing a most prosperous state of affairs, both as regards finance and membership.

ASSIGNMENT.

Chicago, Nov. 15.—Richard G. Uhlemann, furrier, 147 Wabash avenue, made an assignment to-day. Assets are placed at $20,000, and liabilities at $70,000.

Van Houten's Cocoa in America, contain innendoes against it, and appeal to the authority of

Dr. SYDNEY RINGER, Prof. of Medicine at University College, London, Author of the Standard "Handbook of Therapeutics," who actually writes as follows: "From the careful analyses of Prof. ATTFIELD and others I am satisfied that ROMEO. VAN HOUTEN'S COCOA is in no way injurious to health, and that it is decidedly more nutritious than other Cocoas.—It is certainly "Pure" and highly digestible.—The quotations in certain advertisements from my book on Therapeutics are quite misleading, and cannot possibly apply to VAN HOUTEN'S COCOA." The false reflection on VAN HOUTEN'S COCOA is thus effectually repelled, and the very authority cited to injure it, has thereby been prompted to give it a very handsome testimonial.

A Large Number

Of dyspeptics lack the necessary power to digest solid foods, and as stimulants merely excite and weaken the stomach, therefore the immense value of the genuine Johann Hoff's Malt Extract as a nutritious tonic cannot be over-estimated. It not only acts as a tonic, but as a nutrient as well, and the most stubborn case of dyspepsia cannot withstand its wonderful power. Write to Eisner & Mendelson Co., New York, for a descriptive pamphlet. Look out for imitations. The genuine must have the signature of "Johann Hoff" on the neck of every bottle.

PREFERRED STOCKHOLDERS

Of the Clover Leaf Make Themselves Felt

By Voting Down the Proposition to Increase the Bonded Debt—Other Railroad News.

Yesterday afternoon a joint meeting of the preferred and common stockholders of the Toledo, St. Louis & Kansas City railroad was held at the general offices in this city. About twenty gentlemen were present, including the genial Col. Robert G. Ingersoll.

The board of directors at its last meeting recommended that inasmuch as the company was overcrowded with business and needed more rolling stock, and increased facilities in every way, that the bonded debt be increased for the purpose of securing means to carry out these projects. The board set yesterday as the day when such would be done. The preferred stockholders were on hand, however, and blocked any proceedings in that line. The proposition to increase the bonded debt was voted down.

The preferred stockholders have been a little dissatisfied of late and have been criticising the manner in which the affairs were being conducted. They mean well enough, but whether or no their accusations are justifiable is a question.

The road has had to turn business away of late as it had not the necessary facilities to handle it. The cars are being tested to their full capacity.

The Fast Freight Lines.

The commercial superiority of Toledo over many cities of larger population is shown by the number of fast freight line agencies located here. Much ignorance exists as to the relations which these fast freight lines bear to railroads. Co-operative Lines, or lines owned by the railroads, are simple in their formation. The railways over which the lines operate form an organization and contribute a quota of cars in proportion to the number of miles of track owned. A general manager is chosen, whose duty it is to look after cars belonging to the line, keep a close watch on competitive traffic and report to railroads everything appertaining to the transportation of freight. He likewise has charge over agents in the several territories of the line. The expenses, like the earnings of the line, are pro-rated amongst the several railroads. As an illustration, the fast freight lines operating over the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern and New York Central railways may be cited. Where a car of flour is shipped from Toledo to New Yrk city the Lake Shore would get 3.981 per cent. and the New York Central 6.019 per cent. of the through rate; if the flour were lost or destroyed in transit and claim presented, the expense would be a like percentage.

Among the more important co-operation fast freight lines may be mentioned the Blue Line, M. D. T. Co., Star Union, Traders' Despatch, Lackawanna, Kanawah Despatch, and White Line. There are other lines whose organization is not so simple, being bound by contracts and legal forms that give them distinctive features. In such may be included the Empire Line. Other fast freight lines are owned wholly by individuals, and for the use of whose cars the railroads pay mileage; in this list is included dressed beef cars owned by Armour and other large packing houses in Chicago and Kansas City.

The advantages gained by railroads in the operation of fast freight lines are threefold; economy, securing of competitive business and quicker time in transportation of freight. Instead of the eastern roads sending a representative to this city and paying his salary and expenses, they identify themselves with one of the fast freight lines and merely pay a portion of salary and expense. Passes over all roads are given to agents, and to them are forwarded impression copies of all way bills, covering traffic over their line, and through these they are enabled to trace freight, and with the aid of the general manager facilitate its movement.

Local Holiday Travel.

The Central Traffic association has authorized excursion rates on lines in this territory for the holidays of 1892-3. Tickets can be sold on December 24, 25, 26 and 31 and January 1 and 2 and are to be limited to continuous passage in each direction. The rates are local in their character and are not to be used as basing rates beyond the territory of the association.

Coming to Toledo.

Civil Engineer E. D. Wileman, who has been located at Massillon for the past several years, has accepted a position with the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railroad and will enter upon his duties on December 1. He will be located at Toledo. Mr. Wileman is very popular in his old home and will no doubt make friends here.

Cinders from Many Engines.

Commercial Agent C. T. Wight, of the B. & O., went to Chicago last night.

General Freight Agent H. J. Booth, of the W. & L. E., is in Chicago to-day.

A. L. Truitt, traveling passenger agent of the C. & O., is in the city to-day.

The Ohio Southern railroad is to be built from Springfield to Lima at once.

General Manager J. M. Ferris, of the Ohio Central lines, is at Cleveland to-day.

The combined capital invested in the railways of the United States is $9,369,398,954.

Division Freight Agent J. M. Osborn, of the Wabash, went down the line this morning.

The number of persons empoyed in constructing, equipping and operating our railways is about 2,000,000.

General Manager A. G. Blair, of the Wheeling & Lake Erie, has been quite sick at his home for the past week.

The Ohio Central company has declared a quartely 1 per cent. dividend on the common stock, payable November 25.

If the bridges belonging to the railways of the United States were joined together, they would reach from New York to Liverpool.

Conductor Murphy, who was killed by his brother in Cleveland, Sunday, was well known and liked by the railroad men in Toledo.

Were it possible to place the railways of the United States continuously from the earth to the moon, they would reach more than half way.

General Passenger Agents Moulton Houk, of the Ohio Central lines, and J. M. Hall, of the Wheeling, will attend the meeting at Chicago to fix world's fair rates.

The coal business keeps up lively. The lines in the Ohio Coal Traffic association handled 34,683 cars of coal during October. This is an average of about 1,333 cars each day, or a total increase of 540 cars over the preceding month.

The president of the C., H. V. & T., with the superintendents, engineers of maintenance of way and other officials started out this morning on the annual tour of inspection over the line. They went south first and will probably be in Toledo about Thursday.

The local freight offices of the Wabash were notified this morning that the new extension of the road between Montpelier, O., and Walcottville, Ind., was open and ready for business. It is a portion of what will ultimately be a straight line from Detroit to Chicago.

STABBING AFFRAY

At Bryan Which May Prove Fatal.

Bryan, Nov. 15.—(Special)—For the past few days two strangers, one posing as a blind man, and the other as a cripple with a crutch, have been on the streets of Bryan selling corn salve. Last evening they went into a saloon and there met Elmer Buskirk, a well-known young man. He guyed the pair and asserted that the blind man was a fake. A few words followed and the alleged blind man became infuriated, drew a knife and plunged it into Buskirk's abdomen, cutting between the short ribs and inflicting a wound that the doctors say will prove fatal.

The two strangers were immediately placed under arrest. It was discovered that they had been camping out with their families just north of the town. It is not known who they are or from where they came.

SOUTHERN CITIZENS

Reminded of the Days of the Civil War

By the Demonstration of Indignation Caused by the Levy of An Excessive Railroad Tax.

Grayson, Ky., Nov. 15.—The citizens of Grayson were reminded of war times yesterday when more than 300 mounted men entered the town and rode through the principal streets, followed by nearly an equal number on foot. The demonstration was caused by the railroad tax. Collector Peter Brown had levied upon some land and advertised it for sale yesterday at the court house door and the citizens of the county had risen in a body to oppose the sale. A committee waited upon Brown and he was induced to forego the sale and resign his collectorship, after which the citizens retired in an orderly manner to their homes. This settles the railroad tax question in Carter county as it will be impossible to find anyone to accept the collectorship.

CONCERNING TROOPS.

Grand Junction, Colo., Nov. 15.—A vigorous remonstrance is likely to be forwarded to Washington against the permaneat withdrawal of the United States troops, who were removed from this point to Fort Logan to-day. The white settlers are greatly exercised over the proceeding. They have had experience with the White River Indians and the Umcompahgres, as it was the same Indians who participated in the cruel and bloody massacre at Meeker in 1879. The removal of the troops leaves about three thousand settlers in the Ashley valley at the mercy of at least five thousand blood-thirsty, pilfering Utes. No explanation has been vouchsafed by the war department, and the ranchmen are at a loss to understand the movement.

ORANGE TRADE.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 15.—What promises to be a successful orange trade with England was inaugurated to-day by the departure of an Atlantic liner with a large cargo of the pick of the season's crop. The fruit was packed and loaded at Fernandino, which is to be the loading point, and transported to this city by rail. It is calculated that in the English market the fruit will bring an average price of $3 per box, and this would net the grower $1.15. This the growers regard as a very satisfactory return.

ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE.

St. Louis, Nov. 15.—The annual meeting of the Society of the Army of the Tennessee opens here this evening, and a large number of noted military men have already arrived. Gen. Schofield and Secretary Elkins, with ex-President Rutherford B. Hayes will come in on the afternoon train. A special train with over one hundred members of the Chicago branch of the order, will also arrive at 4 o'clock.

EDWARD STOKES' CASE.

New York, Nov. 15.—Judge Barrett, of the supreme court, has refused to continue the injunction obtained by Edward S. Stokes restraining W. E. D. Stokes from prosecuting two actions in the superior court on two promissory notes for $34,000, and from conveying or disposing of lands in the Virginias held by W. E. D. Stokes as security for the notes.

NOTORIOUS CRIMINALS

Escaped Last Night From Laporte Jail.

The Country Is Being Searched for the Fugitives.

Laporte, Ind., Nov. 15.—A big jail delivery took place here last evening by which seven notorious criminals secured their liberty. They removed the iron bars from a window on the lower floor of the county jail, which afforded them easy egress. Four other prisoners confined on the same floor refused to take advantage of the opportunity offered them to escape. A large force was hastily organized for pursuit and the surrounding country is being thoroughly searched.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

St. Johns, N. F., Nov. 15.—A destructive fire visited Hoylestown yesterday, destroying a large bakery and the tobacco factory of Harvey & Co. The buildings were all new, having been rebuilt on the ruins of the great fire of last July. The loss on buildings is $100,000 and on stock about $50,000; fully covered by insurance. The cause of the fire is unknown. One hundred and fifty hands are thrown out of employment. The plant will be rebuilt at once.

CAUSE FOR ALARM.

Insomnia a Serious Condition.

"I Can't Sleep!"

Sleeplessness is a rapid road to the insane asylum.

Men allow care, anxiety or business troubles to drive sleep from their eyelids, while women with unstrung nerves and excitable temperaments, pass hours upon hours each night in sleepless, restless misery.

What wonder that there are so many shattered nerves, tired brains and debilitated bodies, when we consider the thousands who pass sleepless or disturbed nights, and rise mornings feeling indescribably miserable, dragged out, with tired limbs, exhausted energies, nerveless and ambitionless.

It is maddest folly to use opium, morphine or chloral. There is one sure way to cure sleeplessness—use Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. This wonderful remedy is nature's own sleep producer, and is perfectly harmless, being made from pure vegetable medicines. For sale by druggists, $1.00.

"Would Be Well If I Could Sleep."

It soothes, calms and quiets the weakened, irritable and over-wrought nerves, producing perfect repose and refreshing, natural sleep; at the same time it builds up the shattered nerves and gives renewed life, strength and vigor to the system. Use it, you who are sleepless.

"I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy as being a good remedy for sleeplessness. Having been troubled in this way for three years, and objecting seriously to opiates, I have used Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy with great benefit. I have also recommended the Nervura to many of my friends who have been much benefited by its use.

"MRS. G. H. HILL.
"11 Union St., Concord, N. H."

Dr. Greene, the successful specialist in curing all forms of nervous and chronic diseases, 35 W. 14th street, New York, can be consulted free, personally or by letter. Call or write him about your case, or send for symptom blank to fill out, and a letter fully explaining your disease, giving advice, etc., will be returned free.

Wednesday and Thursday of this week the sixth annual convention of the Fifth District Sunday School association will be held at Edgerton. Mrs. M. R. Davis, Marion Lawrance, C. V. Wagner, A. A. Crittenden and Miss Brown will be the representatives from Toledo.

An Error as to Mr. Isaac Church.

In the account of the Manchester trial printed in the Bee last evening, Mr. Isaac Church was credited as stating in court that he believed Manchester guilty, if the others were, when the fact is he had nothing to say, since he was excused. The words were used by another juryman who was excused.

Death of Mrs. Erskine.

Mrs. Ella N. Erskine, widow of Robert Erskine, and mother of Mrs. Wm. Worts, died at her home, No. 30 Twelfth street, last night. She had been sick all summer. Mrs. Erskine was an estimable lady with a large circle of acquaintances. While she was quite ill her death was not expected. It comes like a shock to her loving relatives and friends.

The Toledo Canoe Club Meets.

The Toledo Canoe club met in their rooms in the King block last evening. Vice-Commodore John Roser presided. After the usual routine of business, it was decided to remove the furniture from Grassy point club house and put it into the winter quarters of the club in the King block. A New Year's reception and several parties are under consideration, to be given during the winter.

The Schubert Song Recital.

The Schubert song recital which Mr. Elvin Singer will give with some of his pupils in Whitney & Currier's hall on the 28th of this month, promises to be a very artistic and enjoyable affair. Those who have already had the privilege of listening to Mr. Singer's fine interpretations of the beautiful Schubert songs will realize the treat in store for them.

Shot in the Arm.

Frank R. Copperfield, who resides at 525 Locust street, was out duck hunting near Presque Isle yesterday afternoon. Late in the afternoon while stepping out of his boat his gun was accidentally discharged. The contents tore his arm in a terrible manner. He was taken to Ironville, where Parks' ambulance was called and he was conveyed to his home and made as comfortable as possible.

At the Y. M. C. A.

To-night at 8 o'clock, in Y. M. C. A. parlor, the second gospel meeting of the week of prayer will be held. Mr. J. J. Freeman will speak to young men on the topic, "A Place Where Two Roads Meet."

The meeting last evening was an interesting one, and all young men have a cordial invitation to be present at all the meetings held this week.

The Protestant Hospital.

The managers of the Protestant hospital held their semi-monthly meeting this morning with Mrs. Cyrus Hussey, of Cherry street. Mrs. Hart presided. The hospital is so full at the present time that the meeting could not be held there as heretofore. No important business was transacted. Several applications have been made for admittance to the old men's home, which will be considered as soon as the new hospital is completed.

Services at Trinity Church.

Services and appointments at Trinity church this week will be:

Tuesday—8 p. m., lime light lecture; subject, "The Life and Times of Columbus." 7:30. Girls' Friendly.

Wednesday—7:30, evening prayer and address; subject, "The Nature of the Sacraments;" 8 p. m., Knights of Temperance; 8 p. m., Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

Friday—5 p. m., evening prayer and holy baptism.

Colonel Ingersoll and His Family.

Col. R. G., Mrs. and Miss Maude Ingersoll were in Toledo yesterday. The colonel, who was here in attendance of a meeting of the Clover Leaf Railroad company, is not talking politics to any great extent.

He says President Harrison is a good man and should have been elected. The colonel waxes jocular over some of the alleged causes of defeat, and if he would allow his opinions to be published it would be entertaining reading.

The Toledo District Confrence.

The semi-annual meeting of the Toledo District, Central Ohio M. E. conference opened last evening at Bowling Green, Rev. P. P. Pope, presiding elder, in the chair. Rev. Jason Young, of Elmore, preached the sermon. To-day an interesting program is being observed. Papers on instructive topics are to be read by Revs. W. A. Winter, J. W. Miller, J. D. Simms, S. L. Roberts, P. P. Pope, C. B. Holding, J. H. Bethards, J. I. Wearn, Isaac Newton, and others. The session closes to-night.

Dirty Weather.

Cautionary storm signals have been ordered up at Sault Ste. Marie, Cheboygan, Marquette and on Lake Michigan There are three distinct storm centers to-day: One on the Carolina coast, another in Missouri and the third in the extreme northern part of the country—all moving toward the S. Lawrence valley. They will probably join and cause bad weather in the northeast, and likely affect the lakes. The storm this morning covered the entire west to the Rocky Mountains. Here there will be showers of rain but no snow; and the weather will probably begin to clear to-morrow and then get colder.

Married at Detroit.

A marriage in which many Toledoans are interested occurred this morning at Detroit. The contracting parties were Mr. Alpha Page, of this city, and Miss Marie Vogelman, of Detroit. The ceremony took place at St. Mary's church, in the presence of a large number of friends. Miss Marie Page, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid, and Mr. Joseph Abair best man. An elegant breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents on Abbott street. The happy couple will spend the honeymoon with Capt. Joseph Page, on lower Huron street, and will then return to Detroit. Best wishes will be with Mr. and Mrs. Page for a pleasant journey through life.

A Trial by Jury.

The case of Mrs. Henrietta Andrews came up in police court yesterday afternoon for jury trial. Mrs. Andrews held that she did not keep a house of assignation at the corner of Oak and Huron streets, but ran a feather renovating establishment instead. She had Parks Hone, Judge Howe and H. A. Merrill as her attorneys, and with such legal help she ought to be able to prove almost anything.

Detective Carew testified that he had watched the house, and that he found a sentinel watching him. Detective Hall's testimony was damaging, inasmuch as he stated that he had caught six couples in the place. Others gave evidence of queer doings. The case is still on this afternoon.

Musical Evening at St. Paul's Church.

The W. F. M. S. of St. Paul's M. E. church will give a most delightful entertainment at the church on the evening of November 18. Following is the program:

On Gallant Company (Becker), Cecelia Ladies' Quartet.

A Summer Love Dream (Cowden), Miss Olive Parmelee.

Violin solo, Mrs. May Barden Colburn.

The Wanderer (Fasca), Mr. W. A. Willett.

Symphony, Mr. A. D. Scammell.

(a) Last Hope (Gottschalk); (b) Etude (Rubenstein), Mr. John W. Clouse.

Nita Gitana (De Koven), Miss Grace Isolene Reasner.

The Gypsies (Bordese), Misses Pratt and Buck.

Ballad Music (Rubinstein), The Misses Breckinridge.

The Chimes (Macy), Cecelia Ladies' Quartet. Accompanists, Miss Whiting, Mrs. Cook.

Vestibuled Street Cars.

Superintendent Lang, of the Consolidated street railway, when asked about the act requiring vestibuled cars on electric roads, said: I don't know whether it passed or not. It doesn't make any difference, however. Such cars are not suitable and they have been taken off where they had been put on. They are liable to cause accidents and the people do not like them."

A street car man in replying to the objection of Mr. David Robison, published in the Bee, that in a snow storm the grimman could not see through the glass of a vestibuled car, said: "With a headlight he could see better than with the snow beating in his face." He continued: "I think it would be all right if electric street cars were placed under control of the state railroad commissioner. There is more risk to a man running an electric street car than to an engineer on a railroad, as he has to run through crowded streets."

THOMAS H. WALBRIDGE

Reappointed as Park Commissioner for Four Years.

Governor McKinley yesterday reappointed Mr. Thomas H. Walbridge as a member of the Toledo board of park commissioners for the term of four years, Mayor Emmick and his associates on the board endorsing the same, and the request being taken to Columbus by the mayor.

Mr. Walbridge was originally appointed by Mayor Hamilton and served until the present board was authorized by the legislature and the commissioners selected by Governor Campbell. Mr. Walbridge's term was for the short period, one year, and the appointment yesterday is only in keeping with the usual rule prevailing.

CONFIRMATIONS.

Joint Session of the Aldermen and Councilmen.

City Clerk Lamb this morning sent out notices for a joint meeting of the aldermen and councilmen. The confirmation of appointments will be taken up. The mayor has re-appointed Capt. P. H. Dowling for the workhouse board, and the public library board recommends Mr. Franklin Hubbard for reappointment as trustee. There may be also an appointment on the library board to succeed Mr. W. H. Scott, resigned. There will also be some bonds to confirm. It is not known whether anything will be done in the matter of investigating the charges against Street Commissioner Bower, now that it has been brought into court.

ROYAL MURDER.

Three Montentgrins on Trial in Vienna.

Vienna, Nov. 15.—Three montenegrins are on trial at Spalato, in Austrian-Dalmatia, charged with having murdered a natural son of Prince Nicholas of Montenegro.

The name of the son was Grujica, and it was brought out in court that he had been a continual source of trouble to the prince.

Grujica was supported by his father for many years, but he became dissipated in his habits and his demands for money were persistent. Prince Nicholas at length stopped his supplies.

This was resented by the young man and he made every endeavor to annoy the prince and make him ridiculous before the public.

He blackmailed and lampooned him and abused him openly in the public bazaars. Numerous family documents and satirical poems relating to the prince, written by Grujica, were read in court in Camera.

It is hinted that the murderers were simply tools of others in committing the crime, and the Austrian authorities who have no liking for the Prince of Montenegro, on account of his pro-Russian sympathies, seem determined to bring out all the facts.

THE TALKATIVE GIRL.

She talks about the weather and she archly wonders whether it will rain when to the theater she will go next week with me.

She says that she's been painting—feels quite weak, almost to fainting, but her tongue keeps right on moving just as lively as can be.

She asks if I'm a dancer—never stops to get an answer, but she tells me all excitement what exquisite times she had.

Asks me what I know of dresses, and in confidence confesses that the one she wore last evening was a fright and made her sad.

With nods she fairly bubbles, tells me all her girlish troubles, and her tongue keeps on a-wagging with a never ceasing flow.

And thus for hours I'm sitting with the golden minutes flitting, for she will not let me tell her that I think I'd better go.—Life.

Two girls in a far western town are reported to have shot apples from each other's heads at a distance of twenty paces. It is said that they are working their way east by giving exhibitions in towns along the route. Both are described as being pretty and attractive with certain characteristics which enable them to "keep men at a distance" with great ease.

The latter talent can readily be appreciated, but it is doubtful if the east, where the girls expect to make such an emphatic hit, will enthuse over the William Tell business. Midair trapeze acts, net diving feats and, in fact, all risky stage performances are in a state of innocuous desuetude so far as public favor is concerned.

The east can get along very nicely without the girl sharpshooters.

Ohio is still in doubt with the scale slightly in democratic favor.

Vice-President elect Stevenson is a Presbyterian, and his family with him.

What has become of Peck's New York labor report? Has it lost its usefulness?

Mr. Ashley says the boodler has got to go. He has gone, Mr. Ashley, he has gone.

It has been practically agreed that McKinley was the Burchard of the recent campaign.

The democratic executive committee will make arrangements to-day for an old-time jollification.

When rewards are to be distributed for political services the earnest, honest worker should be first recognized.

Henri Watterson smiles lovingly on the star-eyed goddess these days. Henri has no peer among the leaders of democracy.

An invitation should be extended to Col. Bonner and the naval reserve to participate in the democratic jollification in Toledo.

Natural gas towns are awakening to the fact that the inexhaustible theory is rather mythical. May Toledo be among the last to realize it.

A week has passed, and the ruin predicted for the country by republican orators has not yet come to pass. Maybe it will not.

Toledo will soon be in the throes of another political struggle.. Pins are already being set up for the offices to be filled in the spring.

Congressman-elect Tom Johnson, of Cleveland, is the lion of the hour in New York at present, with his 3,200 majority in a 2,000 republican district.

Did Sam Taylor resign as a member of the Ohio house? That's a question that will probably have some bearing before the present contest is settled.

The Cleveland Sun and Voice editorially states that it is so staunchly republican as to be in a rejoicing mood over the crushing out of the McKinley bill.

If Cleveland's election had done nothing more than kill off Dana, it would have been enough. The political death of Dana is sufficient cause for universal jubilee.

There were two democratic candidates for governor in Texas, and Brother Hogg, the straight nominee, comes up smiling with 60,000, which will answer all practical purposes.

Another heresy trial is in progress at Cincinnati. If some good brother will arise and tell the public what is to be gained by proceedings of this character, a little satisfaction would be afforded.

A daily suggestion for ladies, in the matter of dress, appears in the Bee, which may aid the housewife in reaching a conclusion on matters now difficult to determine. The author, Florette, is good authority.

Judge Altgeld, the newly-elected democratic governor of Illinois, makes the statement that he has not an office pledge or promise to fulfill, and will not consider applications until a week before his inauguration.

Manufacturers of Toledo will be much interested in the meeting to be held at the Woolson building this evening, with relation to the smoke nuisance. It is hoped some remedy will be suggested for its abatement.

With the exception of Mr. Wanamaker, all of the officers in President Harrison's cabinet lost their state in last Tuesday's fight. For men who were selected for their great political pull, they proved dismal failures.

Michigan's legislature just elected, a majority of which is of the republican persuasion, threatens to repeal the Miner law giving district representation in the electoral college. The law is one of the fairest ever enacted.

When it is necessary to take a week to canvass the vote in Ohio that the official figures may be had to elect the republican electors, the inquiry may well be put, where are they at? The Buckeye state did itself proud this year.

Gen. Sam Cary was right when he stated that the result of the campaign would be one of great surprises—for the democratic party, over its overwhelming victory; for the republicans, over their great defeat. For once, Sam predicted right.

The Bee is in receipt of an invitation from a committee representing the democracy of Canton, to attend a jollification next Friday evening. Through the Bee, the committee also extends an invitation to the clubs and democracy in general of Toledo to be present.

Now that the democratic party has succeeded in obtaining control of the government, the usual cry for the strict observance of civil service rules will be heard wherever a republican newspaper is printed. The sending of the 400 clerks to Ohio to vote for Harrison is among the things which will be omitted in the discussion.

One of the most significant results of the election is that the price of trust stocks has gone down, while that of corporation and general stocks has advanced. This is an acknowledgment of the often repeated statement that protection fosters trusts. Under the new regime the trust must go, and the market is consequently affected by the fear of the anticipated result.

Mr. Thomas H. Walbridge has been reappointed as a member of the board of park commissioners by Governor McKinley. The selection is one that will meet with the hearty approbation of citizens in general. Mr. Walbridge has given much of his valuable time to this department of the city's business, and has exercised a degree of intelligence, gained by practical experience, from which the city has greatly profited.

The democrats of Wood county celebrated the good democratic victory at Bowling Green last night, and they did it in a manner which reflected credit on all concerned. Bowling Green is full of democratic orators, and with Ritchie and Wright, and Eppstein and Machen, from Toledo, the enthusiasm effervesced. Here's to Wood county and her only 474 majority for Ashley. The boys did nobly, and earned a right to toot their horns.

The New York Herald credits the democratic gain in Ohio to Senator Brice. It relates how Brice, after looking over the situation here returned post haste to New York, and at a meeting of the national committee pointed out the fact that Rainbow Chaser Hahn had sent McKinley, Foster and Foraker out of the state and practically deserted Ohio. Brice returned to Ohio, and the result is apparent.

Chairman John Farley got home early enough from his fishing excursion to practically defeat the republican party in Ohio. It would be in order to spring some of the jokes which the opposition press dropped at his expense when absent. From the 21st of September until the close of the campaign, the state committee put in some pretty good licks without much flourish of trumpets. Another week's work and it would have been necessary to get out a search warrant for the republican party.

There is honor among thieves, another evidence of it being the refusal of four prisoners in the Laporte, Ind., jail to avail themselves of the opportunity to escape, offered by the delivery effected there last night, by which seven notorious criminals gained their liberty. Perhaps they realized that the life of a fugitive seeking to escape from the just punishment of his crimes is never one of liberty. It is charitable to suppose, however, that other and less selfish motives influenced them, and that an innate sense of honor, distorted and unhealthy, perhaps, but still inbred in their natures, deterred them from stealing away from a fate they have courted.

ORGANIZATION IS THE WORD.

The democrats of Lucas county owe it as a duty to the party and themselves to redeem this county from the politicians that at present manipulate the republican machine.

Reform is also needed in the city government, and needed badly. The taxpayer, the smallest and the heaviest, are alike interested in this reform. Many of the most important offices are controlled and operated, not in the interests of the public, but for the personal aggrandizement of a few politicians and the direct benefit of the dominant power—the republican party.

There should be a reform for the reason that there is a gross waste of public money in almost every department. The beneficiaries may not all be republican politicians, but special privileges should be accorded to none.

There should be a reform in the interests of economy and better government. Long continuance in office tends to carelessness, to use no harsher term; to arrogance, and to a defiant disregard of the rights of the public.

The democratic party alone has the power to work the necessary reform. The people, tired and sick of bossism and boodleism, are eager and ripe for a change.

A few months hence an opportunity will be offered the voters of Toledo to redress some of the wrongs hinted at in this article.

In order to accomplish it the democratic party must needs do one thing. Organization is the open sesame to success.

A change of two votes in each precinct in Ohio will make Ohio as solidly democratic as Alabama.

Organize, and Toledo can be as democratic as New York or Boston.

Now is the acceptable time. The spirit of reform is abroad, and the recent victory gives vigor and renewed life to the hopes of young democracy.

SONGS THEY SING.

Popular Lamentations and Explanations.

Platt to Harrison:
Misfortunes come faster and faster,
And it seems to be right after you.
They say that I caused the disaster,
But now what in the world could I do
With Chauncey, who sticks like a plaster
To the things that our grandmothers knew?
No, I swear by thy beard, my good master,
You can place the whole blame on Depew.

Depew to Harrison:
Brother Platt says I did it, the Fakir,
He's a nice thing to run a campaign.
They raise such as he by the acre
Without either labor or rain.
The truth is, I prophesied danger
When Platt took the throttle, and still,
Who'd a dreamed that the veriest granger
Would try to run her over a Hill.

McKinley to Harrison:
Don't mind them, my master, the monkeys
Would blame it on my little bill.
They must be the stupidest donkeys
To see aught of evil or ill
In that child. The Baron, his father,
Was ever you're very best friend.
Disown it, you say. No, I'd rather
Hold on to it now to the end.

Harrison to himself:
The thing came so awfully sudden,
Like a lightning bolt from the blue,
When I thought I had such a puddin'.
I wonder if Chauncey Depew
Won't give me a job for a living?
If McKinley, Wanny, or Platt
Would deign to drop in 'bout Thanksgiving
They might tell me where I was at.

TOLEDO'S JOLLY.

The Toledo democrats will celebrate one day this week and due announcement of the time and place will be made in these columns.

8,531.

Indiana Gives the Above Democratic Majority.

Indianapolis, Nov. 15.—The official returns on the electoral vote on this county show that the same mistake was made in stamping that resulted in dividing the ticket in Ohio. Bracken, the first elector on the democratic ticket, received 20,426, while Robinson, the second man, ran 372 behind him. Pierce, heading the republican electoral ticket, received 216 more votes than Morris, the second man. These figures show that more democrats than republicans erred in stamping the first name. If the same rate had continued in other counties, in anotherwise close contest, it would have worked a deal of harm.

The official returns from 85 counties in the state give the total people's party vote as 20,242 and the prohibitionists 11,627. The remaining seven counties will not materially increase these totals. In 1888 the populists polled 17,354 for secretary of state and the prohibitionists 12,006. The official returns verify the report previously sent out that the democracy, in joint ballot in the general assembly, will have 98 votes and the republicans 52. In the senate the vote will stand 35 to 15, and in the house 63 to 37 on party questions. The returns from all the counties in the state show a democratic plurality of 8,531.

OHIO NEWSPAPER COMMENT.

Several Things Have Struck Them Lately

It may now strike the framers of the McKinley bill that a little more reciprocity would not have hurt it.—Syracuse Standard.

The Blade's Tocsin.

When Gov. Campbell said "keep your eyes on Ohio," he pulled the rope attached to the clapper of the alarm bell.—Mt. Vernon Republican.

Ruth's First Term.

Mrs. Cleveland has the congratulations of the whole country without reserve. Baby Ruth will be the only "Stranger in the House" during the next administration.—Philadelphia Press.

Expensive Campaign Thunder.

Statements are made that the alleged tin plate works of the country will now shut down and quit making "tin, tin, American tin!" This is proof that the snide affairs were only run for campaign purposes.—Norwalk Advocate.

Those Doleful Wails.

Now then keep your ears open and hear the republican politicians and newspapers tell how rapidly the democrats, who represent three-fourths of the American people, are going to break the country into infinitisimal pieces. Free coal from Nova Scotia is the latest.—Wheeling Register.

He Will Not Tarry.

President Harrison's last message to congress will be exceedingly short. This is appropriate to the situation. The minister usually preaches a very short sermon over the remains of a sinner, who died without hope of a future.—Canton News-Democrat.

Wait Until Sherman Resigns.

If Senator Sherman should resign his seat in the United States senate would he throw his influence to have McKinley elected to fill the vacancy? Something must be done or the gallant young Napoleon will be a thing of the past.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Voters Turned a Trick.

The republican gerrymander of Ohio was righted by the people, who give the democrats 11 and the republicans 10 of the congressmen. Political trickery should be abandoned, because the honest voters, who are in a large majority, generally set down upon such games.—Tiffin Advertiser.

Now You Are Right.

There is no need to worry about Mr. Cleveland's cabinet. He has plenty of well-seasoned hard wood, straight grained democratic timber to choose from, and no man is a better judge of material. Grover will not be apt to overlook Ohio's hickory in ex-Gov. Campbell.—Columbus Press.

A Blow at Hair Restorer.

A bald head may become a certificate of good character. It has been noticed that among several hundred males imprisoned for law-breaking only a small percentage—less than 10 per cent.—are bald-headed, and the proportion seems to be smallest among those whose crimes are most serious.—Dayton Journal.

Not Worthy of the Effort.

If the tariff was not so high on salt, enough might be obtained to save the g. o. p. till the carcass could be tenderly laid away, with this inscription:
Here lies the body of unequal toll,
The more it got the more it stole;
The more it had the more it craved;
Just God! can this gross thing be saved?—Jackson Herald.

He Generally Is.

In his Rochester speech several weeks ago ex-Gov. James E. Campbell, of Ohio, concluded with these words: "I believe that the people of this country, from the 4th day of March, 1889, when Grover Cleveland went out of office, have had it in their hearts to put him back there on the 8th day of November, 1892" You were right, Governor.—Rochester Herald.

The Right Kind of Slush.

They bombarded the droughty heavens at Washington with Dyrenforth bombs and got a flood, while in Connecticut they prayed for rain and got a blizzard. Ohio did nothing and got 48 hours of slush. Barring the geographical disadvantages of lying on the border line between southern science and New England piety, the people of Ohio have the most enjoyable strip of climate in the union.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

The G. O. P's. "Progressive Policies.

In breaking the sad news of the recent defeat to Mr. Harrison, Mr. Carter of the national republican committee tells the president that the defeat was due to the "progressive policies" of the republican party. Considering the fact that republican orators have been quoting Washington, Hamilton, Jefferson, Jackson and the Lord only knows who else of the "fathers" in support of McKinleyism "progressive policies" is particularly good.—Kansas City Star.

Sympathy for Office-Seekers.

One can almost sympathize with the ambitious republicans who have been disappointed at the result of the recent election. In the event of Mr. Harrison's success, hundreds of them expected office, for new offices would have been created by the wholesale, but now these aspirants will die of old age, and another generation may follow them before another chance will be given to feed upon the loaves and fishes that have been supplied by republican administrations for 30 years.—New York News.

They Were Desperate

The arbitrary action of Postmaster-General Wanamaker in excluding from second-class mail matter the valuable journal Printer's Ink, contributed considerably to the defeat of President Harrison. There are thousands of editors and publishers in the United States who esteem and prize this little publication for the news it contains of particular interest to them. There is no more reason why Printer's Ink should be shut out of the second class than any other trade paper. The postoffice department committed a grave error in discriminating against it, and this exhibition of spite is disgusting. —Cleveland World (rep.)

DRUMMER DRUMMED.

Warm Reception Given a Toledo Republican at Napoleon.

Napoleon, O., Nov. 15.—(Special.)—John Keller is a popular drummer who makes this town ever so often in the interest of the Boetwick, Braun & Co., wholesale hardware store at Toledo. During his many trips here he has made an army of democratic friends (for you know we are all democrats up this way) with whom he has indulged in many arguments in politics, being a stanch, black republican. He always predicted overwhelming republican success this fall and put up no small amount of the stuff on Harrison in corroboration of such belief.

Yesterday was his regular trip to Napoleon, and knowing this some 30 representative democrats, armed with all the accouterments necessary to make dun and life miserable, laid in wait for the innocent victim at the depot.

As he reached the platform a signal was given and of all pandemoniums that have ever burst forth heretofore, the noise that followed certainly claims the leadership. Tin horns, horse-fiddlers, wrasp files and gongs operated by willing drummers lent their might. The very roof of the depot suffered from nervous prostration, while the echo found lodgment in Single's woods four miles away.

The unhappy John tried to conciliate, but his diplomacy was no good, and stoutly protesting with many an attempt to do the run act and escape, he was escorted down Perry street with the noisy democrats surrounding him like a horde of locusts. The crowd grew and by the time Groschner's hardware store was reached Mr. Keller had ample cause to regret his good republicanism. He is a good story teller and will no doubt add this escapade to his store. He swears vengeance in 1896.

LUCAS' OFFICIAL VOTE

On the Various Candidates Voted for

Last Tuesday—The Electors Split Up on Majorities, Hence All Are Not Given.

The official canvass has been completed of the late vote in Lucas county on all except that for presidential electors, which is so confused by different men on the same ticket receiving a different number of votes, that it will take some further time to give the vote of all 23 on the four tickets. It is known, however, that Leonard Danford and Myron T. Herrick, the first two men on the republican ticket received 11,211 and 11,147 vote respectively; James P. Seward and Herman S. Sternberger, the first two on the democratic ticket, 9,860 and 9,787 respectively; Andrew J. Carpenter, first on the people's party ticket, 198; and Martin Reddy, first on the prohibition ticket, 272.

The people's party vote for secretary of state was 190; for judge of supreme court (long term), 184; short term, 180; clerk of supreme court, 178; board of public works, 180; congressman, 233; judge of circuit court, no candidate; judge of common pleas court (Hudson), 142; recorder, 173; commissioner, 175; surveyor, no candidate; and infirmary director, 171.

The prohibition vote for their officers was: Secretary of state, 247; judge of supreme court, long term, 286; short term, 284; board of public works, 285; congress, 283; judge of circuit court, 278; judge of common pleas court, 255; recorder, 297; commissioner, 270; surveyor, 260; infirmary director, 264.

The vote of the great party and its attempted rival on the various offices was as follows:

Secretary of state—Taylor, W. A., dem., 9,766; Taylor, S. M., rep., 11,157; Taylor's majority, 1,391.

Judge of supreme court—Long term—John D. Briggs, dem., 9,742; Wm. T. Spear, rep., 11,171. Spear's majority, 1,492.

Judge of supreme court—Short term—Thomas Beer, dem., 9,734; Jacob F. Burket rep., 11,183. Burket's majority, 1,449.

Clerk of supreme court—Wm. H. Wolfe, dem., 9,740; Josiah B. Allen, rep., 11,172. Allen's majority, 1,432.

Member of public works board—John Myers, dem., 9,736; E. L. Lybarger, 11,168; Lybarger's majority, 1,432.

Member of congress—Byron F. Ritchie, dem., 10,409; James M. Ashley, rep., 10,464. Ashley's majority, 55.

Judge of circuit court—Chas. H. Scribner, dem., 10,392; Charles P. Wickham, rep., 10,577. Wickham's majority, 185.

Judge of common pleas court—Preston C. Hudson, D., 9,218; Isaac P. Pugsley, R., 11,767; Pugsley's majority, 2,549; or deducting the 255 people's party vote; also for Hudson, 2,294.

Recorder—Jacob Kohn, D., 9,984; A. F. Wendt, R., 11,008; Wendt's majority, 1,114.

Commissioner—Luther C. Gibbs, D., 9,750; John L. Pray, R., 11,163; Pray's majority, 1,413.

Surveyor—Wm. G. Root, D., 9,633; Joseph Hoffman, R., 11,292; Hoffman's majority, 1,659.

Infirmary Director—Joseph Gottes, D., 9,646; Thomas Crofts, R., 11,254; Croft's majority, 1,608.

Ninth District Congressman.

An abstract of the vote for congressman shows the following figures in the different counties of the district:

	Ashley.	Ritchie.	Lect.	Dumpace.
Fulton	2,759	1,938	77	267
Lucas	10,464	10,409	783	233
Ottawa	1,571	2,035	49
Wood	5,233	4,759	504	238
Total	20,027	20,041	913	738

Ritchie's majority over Ashley, 14.

For Common Pleas Judge.

An abstract of the vote for common pleas judge shows the following figures in the counties composing the district.

	Pugsley.	Hudson.	Baird.	Hudson
Erie	3,971	4,149	114	110
Huron	4,209	3,618	249	83
Lucas	11,767	9,218	255	142
Ottawa	1,554	2,953	45	29
San'y	2,952	3,732	159	258
Total	24,453	23,670	822	622

Pugsley's majority over Hudson, 783.

These abstracts are an approximate, the figures not having yet been canvassed. The majority of Scribner over Wickham for circuit court judge in the whole district, ascertained in the same way, is 416.

A QUEER JIGGER

Who Eats at the Merchants' With His Hat On.

Ullie Akerstrom Tripped Into the Hearts of the Patrons of the People's—Local Theatrical News

The unusual sight of a man setting at dinner at the Merchants' Hotel yesterday with his hat on caused the guests to think that the eccentric George Francis Train had struck town.

It was not Train, however, but Uzzie, from Tarrabandia, Australia, the son of natives who were darker than American Indians. Uzzie is a freak. His hair is pure white and he is quite handsome. He wears his hat at the table that he may get attraction. This sounds queer, but when it is understood that his head of snow white hair stands out straight from his head, making a bunch six feet in circumference, the statement will not be doubted. He thinks the hat the less conspicuous. Uzzie, while a freak himself, is quite an intelligent man and is the manager of Jo-Jo, the Dog Faced Boy. Uzzie is at the Wonderland this week along with a good many other attractions. Signor Mutty has a performing monkey that almost talks, and certainly reasons. There is the Lilliputian German Rose, Orsono the wire-haired lancer, Mlle. Zerona with a dozen big alligators, Irwin and Gearfo duelists, Kitty Smith who is very good in character changes and dances, Ben and Lou Mowatt in a club swinging act that will put Gus Hill in the shade, James Thompson the comedian, and the famous All Brothers, the young Arabians who appeared here with Tony Pastor's show a season ago.

Ullie Is All Right.

Ullie Akerstrom caught the house at the People's last evening. Miss Akerstrom does a good many things well. She has one good trait, she is natural. Nothing is overdrawn, as it could easily be in a play of the character of Miss Roarer. The piece deals with the love of Aurora for her two daddies, as she calls them—two honest miners who found her after a massacre on the plains. A rich grandfather turns up and takes her away, but her love for the daddies never fades. Her cousins are very much displeased to hear of her as they fear they will lose their inheritance. They plot to kill the old man and Aurora but fail and are discovered. A love story runs through the piece also and everything turns out happily in the end.

The company is quite good. John E. Brennan as the Chinaman and the colored girl Chloe was excellent, in two widely different characters. His work was one of the hits of the show. Ed A. McHugh and W. T. Dulany as the two daddies were also very good. The remainder of the company was fair. Friday and Saturday the company will appear in A Little Busybody.

Mr. Potter To-Night.

Mr. Potter of Texas will be the attraction at Wheeler's this evening. The plot of the drama is as well known as the author's other admirable work, Mr. Barnes, of New York, and that the present company faithfully follows the author's ideas is plainly demonstrated by the large audiences which greet it nightly. The piece will be presented by a first-class company. There will no doubt be a large audience, as the book itself was very popular and had numerous readers.

To-Morrow Evening.

To-morrow evening John C. Rice, who used to be Gen. Monroe's funny partner, will be at Wheeler's with a new comedy, A Knotty Affair, a comedy with a plot and no end of fun. Rice is quite a favorite. His singing and dancing always captured the house. He has a good company with him.

The Kid.

The Kid, a bright musical comedy, will be at Wheeler's Friday evening. The piece will be presented in an elaborate manner and will be worth seeing.

Of Course It Is Doing Well.

Byron Ritchie, the democratic congressman-elect in the Toledo district, had a close call. His majority is only 14. But this is doing very well, considering that the district was supposed to be republican by about 2,000 majority.—Mansfield Shield.

ABSOLUTELY PURE

MR. ASHLEY'S DEFEAT.

To the Editor: It is somewhat amusing to the great rank and file of the republican party to read in this morning's Commercial, a diatribe from the pen of a gentleman who professes a nominal connection with that organization, in which he attempts to read a lecture to the republicans who did not see fit to vote for Mr. Ashley for congress at the late election. Just how or where Mr. Maher has secured the right or authority to pose as a mentor for republicans, it would be a difficult matter to determine. His zeal for the cause in the active days of the campaign reminds one forcibly of the typical country character whom everybody knows, who always occupied a prominent seat at revivals, and whose "Amens" were as loud and sonorous as his contributions to the "quarterage" fund were rare and insignificant.

Nevertheless, granting for the moment that Mr. Maher has the right which he so arrogantly assumes as a dictator to his party, will you allow a republican, who honestly supported and voted for Mr. Ashley a word in reply? In the first place, Mr. Ashley, at the beginning of the recent congressional campaign, held no mortgage on the republican nomination for services either real or imaginary. When he sought the nomination two years ago, both he and his friends fully believed that with the means (both financial and otherwise) at their command, his election was not only possible, but probable. It is true the experiment was an expensive one, but it is also true that he candidate undertook it not only voluntarily, but gladly, knowing full well that if the speculation proved successful it would be worth all it cost. The republican party was not an insurance company that it should be called upon to recoup Mr. Ashley for what was at best, only a gaming operation.

When it came to the selection of a candidate in our new congressional district this summer, both republicans and democrats understood and conceded that the nomination of the former was equivalent to an election. With this situation existing, the friends of Mr. Ashley forced him upon the ticket, in their efforts to do so leaving unused none of the methods of unscrupulous party politics. And when finally at the end of three days and nights of earnest contest, the nomination was secured, hundreds of unprejudiced and intelligent republicans felt that it promised little good, either to the candidate or the party. That this rape upon republicanism brought forth nothing but an abortion was the logical and natural result of the existing facts and conditions. There was no organized effort on the part of any element of the republican party to bring about the defeat of Mr. Ashley. It was nothing less than a manifestation of that spirit which has always led republicans to prefer the welfare of their party rather than the personal interests of any single individual, and which in this case felt that obligation to the former was higher and more potent than subservience to the latter. None know better than the active, working republicans of the district that Mr. Maher's insinuation that any of the leading and influential members of their party worked against the election of their congressional candidate is a feeble and foolish calumny which falls harmless from those against whom it is directed.

If Mr. Maher is wise he will drop the subject gracefully, and guide his facile pen into other and smoother channels. And if precedent can afford him any consolation in his disappointment, let him remember that other men equally able as he have attempted to dictate to the republicans of this district—and failed as signally as he.

Ante-Election Prophets.

Secretary of the Treasury Foster, furnished the valuable tip that "the registration has practically settled the election. Mr. Harrison is as good as re-elected now." Dr. Depew made the bland announcement, based doubtless on his campaign labors, that "the farmers are with us, the artisans are with us, the mechanics are with us. Everybody is with us but a few college professors." Mr. Roswell P. Horr exclaimed, with a delirious touch: "I've been traveling through the length and breadth of New York state for the last 90 days, and I tell you, boys, we've got 'em!" Postmaster General Wanamaker, substituting calm judgment for hysterics, said: "It is my firm conviction that President Harrison will be re-elected. I also believe that New York will give him a larger majority than it did in 1888." In the same vein was the utterance of National Committeeman Clarkson, of Iowa, who declared: "As to New York, my deliberate judgment is that the chances are four to one that this state will choose republican electors." His superior in the national committee, Mr. Carter, gave out the stupendous news that "the majority for Harrison and Reid in the electoral college will be overwhelming."

The organs piped in concert with these clarion strains. Candidate Reid's Tribune said of the democrats: "They don't expect to win, but they can't realize how unmercifully they are going to be thrashed." While the New York Press unconsciously foreshadowed the doom of all the organs in the oracular announcement that "the tin plate liar, the calamity howler and the state bank boomer will be heard no more after this week. The fool killer has a date with all of them for next Tuesday."—Philadelphia Record.

Congressman Harter's Victory.

The loss of Ohio by the republicans is the coup de grace to the McKinley bill. We do not wonder that McKinley himself refuses to be interviewed on the subject. It appears at this time that the state has gone for Cleveland and elected 12 democratic congressmen out of 21. This last achievement shows how a gerrymander may serve to confound the gerrymanderers. The redistricting of the state was made with the confident expectation of returning only five democrats to sixteen republicans. Districts were carved in the most curious shapes. The most outrageous of all was the one cut for Congressman Harter. This was the "shoestring" district of Ohio. If it had been carved in the state of Mississippi it would have been pointed at by the republicans as an example of total depravity and as a new argument for the force bill. This district begins with Knox county, in the center of the state, and runs northward to Lake Erie, embracing the counties of Knox, Morrow, Richland, Ashland, Huron and Lorain. It has a normal republican majority of 1,600. It has now elected Mr. Harter by about 2,000—a change of 3,600 in a single district. This is the most signal triumph that has been achieved by any individual this year except Mr. Cleveland. Mr. Harter has gained this victory, too, as the most pronounced anti-silver man in congress of either party. Altogether, Ohio comes out of this fight as the banner state, considering what she has been in the past, and that she has a "Napoleon" for governor.—New York Evening Post.

THE TWO TAYLORS.

Which One Will Be Secretary of State?

Figures From Back Counties Only Lend to Increase the Doubt.

Columbus, O., Nov. 15.—The secretary of state to-day received official abstracts of the vote at the recent election in 15 additional counties, making 51 counties in all that have been heard from. The abstracts received up to date do not show any material differences from the vote as received by the republican state committeemen and still further bear them out in their conclusions. The vote of the two leading parties for secretary of state in those counties was as follows:

Counties.	W. A. Taylor.	S. M. Taylor.
Auglaize	3745	2088
Champaign	2788	3671
Coshocton	3512	2688
Erie	4106	3048
Geauga	756	2255
Hancock	4892	4747
Jefferson	3479	4776
Miami	4254	5080
Morrow	1059	2290
Ottawa	2929	1573
Trumbull	3180	5781
Tuscarawas	5679	4711
Washington	4503	4818
Wayne	4671	3720
Wood	4717	5256

The totals of the vote in these counties together with the totals of the vote in the 36 counties reported before to-day, showthe total vote for the various candidates in the 51 counties to have been as follows:

Secretary of state:

W. A. Taylor, Dem.	174506
S. M. Taylor, Rep.	170133

Judge of the supreme court:

Spear, Rep.	170214
Burket, Rep.	170085
Briggs, Dem.	174305
Boers, Dem.	174494

Clerk of supreme court:

Allen, Rep.	170184
Wolfe, Dem.	174308

Member board of public works:

Lybarger, Rep.	170414
Myers, Dem.	170205

The vote on electoral candidates was as follows:

Danford, Rep.	171640
Seward, Dem.	175545
Other republicans	170247
Other Democrats	174346

Danford leads the other republican electoral candidates by 1,336 votes, or about 27 1-3 to the county, the ratio of difference increasing rather than diminishing with the increase in the number of counties heard from. If no mistakes in marking the ballots had been made in any of the 37 counties yet to be heard from officially, Seward, the first democratic electoral candidate, would still be elected, as he has now overcome the plurality of the presidential electoral ticket below Danford. In the 51 counties Seward leads the other democratic electoral candidates by 1,199 votes, an average of about 23 1-2 votes to the county. This shows that the democrats voted more intelligently than the republicans, and it would have required only a little more instruction by the democratic committees to have elected all the democratic electoral candidates but one.

As it is if present ratios continue the pluralities of all the other republican electors will be cut down to figures much below that of Danford. With the heavy republican and the most populous counties of the state still to be heard from, the democratic electoral candidates below Seward have gained on the republican electoral candidates below Danford 194 votes, an average gain of more than two and two-thirds votes to the county. If there were any such science as political calculus, it would indicate that this ratio of gain will increase very perceptibly from now on, and there is a "shade of a shadow" of chance that the Ohio electoral delegation will be more mixed up than the politicians have expected. Those returns may wipe out this democratic advantage, but may increase it, and it can not be increased much without giving the democrats more electors than one.

THE ALDERMEN.

A New Batch of Improvement Ordinances.

Change in the Salaries of the Firemen.

The Consolidated Double Track on Dorr Street—Interest of Manufacturers in the Abating of the Smoke Nuisance.

Last night there were present of the board of aldermen Messrs. Graham, Hall, Hartford, Hassenzahl, Hodge, Leroux, Peiter, Wolfman and the president.

On the first call the president alone presented anything—a resolution authorizing the engineer to issue a permit to drain lots in Holland marsh into an adjoining sewer.

Matters Relating to Streets.

Ordinances reported from the street committee were passed as follows, under suspension of the rules:

To pave Washington street between Collingwood and Lawrence avenues; Twenty-second street, from Monroe street to Woodruff avenue; Missouri street, from Washington to Division; also from Division street to a point 90 feet east of Collingwood avenue; to repave the alley between Summit and St. Clair streets, from Adams to Madison; also from Monroe to Perry; to grade Walbridge avenue from Hawley street to Hiett avenue; Spring street from Gibbons to Poplar; and Twenty-second street from Oak street to Cornwall addition; to establish the grade of Warren street, from Bancroft to Delaware; to repeal ordinance to improve State street from Canton avenue to Union street; to amend sections 473 and 476 of the revised ordinances relating to the licensing of house movers; to sewer Washington street from Collingwood to Lawrence avenue, and Wisconsin street from Washington street to City Park avenue.

The resolution to improve Sixteenth street was taken from the table and put on its passage, all voting aye.

Resolutions from the street committee were then passed as follows: To improve State street from Canton avenue to Union street, and rescind former resolution; to direct the street commissioner to notify the contractor of the building on the corner of Water and Jefferson streets to build sidewalks; also the contractor of the National Union building on Huron street to do the same.

Cemetery Enlargement.

A resolution from the cemetery committee, to authorize the trustees to purchase three acres adjoining Forest cemetery from Dr. A. F. Bissell, was passed.

From Ways and Means.

The salary ordinance amendment from the ways and means committee was read a first time; on the second reading, on motion of Mr. Hassenzahl the $15 a month to the L. S. & M. S. detective was stricken out, and the ordinance was then rushed to passage.

The ways and means committee also reported sales of bonds and approval of the awards on the opening of Butler street.

Doing It All Over.

Mr. Hartford presented a resolution for the improvement of Rodger street, from Navarre avenue to Earl street, and the repeal of the former resolution. It passed.

Street Railway Privilege.

From the committee on railroads and telegraphs came an ordinance to grant the T. C. S. Railway company the right to construct a double track, etc., on Dorr street, from Washington street to the westerly city line. Hassenzahl moved to change the time mentioned, 25 years, to the expiring of the present ordinance.

Mr. Lang, of the company, was heard and stated that owners of 2,000 feet over the majority of the property owners had asked for a double track, to save large expense in paving and because the street went to the exposition grounds and Calvary cemetery. The company could not grant the request unless it received something in return for the outlay. The property along the street would be improved.

The ordinance passed under the suspension of the rules without further objection.

Money Matters.

The auditor reported receipts from various sources; also a resolution to deliver to the Warren-Scharf Asphalt Paving company coupons held as a guarantee for street improvement and ordinances to appropriate money to pay bills, improvement bonds and salaries, all of which passed.

Smoke Nuisance.

A letter was read from S. P. Jermain, addressed to the solicitor, and stating that a meeting of manufacturers of the city to consider the smoke nuisance would be held on Tuesday evening, November 15, at 7:45 p. m., at the Woolson Spice company's new building, on Huron street, desiring that as many members of the city council as possible be present, and extending a general invitation.

The solicitor said a great deal of interest had been manifested on this subject for some time. The last legislature passed a bill, and he had drafted an ordinance, and some effort had been made to enforce it. He urged that prosecutions be postponed till some smoke consumers could be got going here. The Pennsylvania company had tried them and found them so satisfactory that they would put them on all their engines in the city. The officials of Chicago pronounced for the consumers. The manufacturers have now taken up the question. The Woolson and Gendron companies had given the committee every aid. The Woolson factory was using hard coal. The manufacturers had joined in asking how to get at the trouble and what to use. The railroad people and manufacturers were desirous of stopping the smoke nuisance in the city. They find that not only did consumers abate the smoke, but also saved fuel. They urged that all the city officials attend their meeting to discuss the matter. He suggested notices to the other board, and the clerk was instructed to send them.

Mr. Miller's Grind.

Engineer Miller presented final estimates for sewers, grading and turnpiking, appointments of inspectors, a contractor's bond for approval; recommended acceptance of improvements and confirmation of sidewalk contract; and ordinances for special taxation for improvements on St. Louis, Albany, Park, Russell, McDonald, Anson, Leuk, Ash, Miami and Superior streets, Maumee avenue and an alley between St. Clair and Oliver street; abstract for bids for grading; and resolution for a crossing on Leuk street. All were approved.

Business From Council.

The first business from the board of councilmen was the appointment by the harbormaster of Ed Strafford, as inspector of Cherry street bridge planking. Mr. Larue thought that now the harbormaster himself could attend to that. The appointment was approved by a vote of 5 to 4.

A resolution directing the clerk to advertise for bids for boring an artesian well at the market space, was laid over for two weeks. That regarding well at Nebraska and Detroit avenues was also tabled.

Resolutions were passed to build walks on Chicago, Canal, Hamilton and Leuk streets, and in front of the police station; to permit a sewer in Grove street and to construct one in Michigan street, and allowing the drainage of a lot in Shaw & Frazier's addition into the sewer in the rear; to allow claims of Emily T. Hall, Neil Huston, John T. Coghlin and W. H. & J. Leith; to abate excess of special taxes on lots in Parks' and Fassett's additions and North Toledo; directing the solicitor to confess judgment in the cases of John Marnath and Chas. Schalow against the city, and to dismiss the case of the city against John T. Newton and others; the engineer to issue permits for draining lots in Stickney's addition; and the street commissioner to take up the old plank road on South street and fill with cinders; to allow claim of Sam Clark for building stone sidewalks in front of school property; to grade Fifteenth and to pave Warren and Colburn street; to confirm contract for Erie street improvement; to accept paving of Maplewood avenue and Bancroft street; and to appoint John O'Hara, E. Wiedeman, James O'Brien, John Gorman, T. Moran, B. O'Farrell, Enos Cusineau, Thos. Marston, Chas. Schultz, M. Madden, B. Mattimore and C. Bossart as inspectors of different sewers.

A SAY ON SALARIES.

An Advocate of the Cheap Men Plan.

Change of Firemen's Pay—Sale of Improvement Bonds—Acceptance of Butler Street Damages.

Before the ways and means committee was called to order last evening several members thereof began discussing the amendment to the salary ordinance whereby a change is made in salaries of firemen. Mr. Leroux thought that the engineer of the Cherry street bridge did not get enough. He argued that a man in that position should be a practical machinist, and a machinist could get $2.50 a day right along, while this place paid only part of the year. Compared with other salaries paid by the city $2s was too small.

Mr. Hartford agreed in opinion with Mr. Leroux, that the city should pay good salaries and get competent men.

Mr. Osborne thought if the city could get an efficient man for $75 a month it was the city's business to do so. He was opposed to raising salaries while the city was in financial straits. There were dozens of men ready to take these positions at the present salaries.

Objection being raised to an inspector for the planking of the bridge, Mr. Hubrich said he understood it was necessary to have an inspector to watch the contractor.

Mr. Osborne declared as a general thing the inspectors appointed were men unfit for the position. He had seen men appointed paving inspectors who couldn't tell a paving block from a piece of cheese. When street laborers and gutter snipers were picked up for inspectors the city might as well have none. He knew the city had been swindled out of thousands of dollars in this way.

Sale of Bonds.

The committee got down to business and the first thing done was the opening of bids for improvement bonds. Spitzer & Co. tendered for $10,876.62 of bonds for improving Fifteenth street from Washington street to the T., St. L. & K. C. railroad, par, interest and a premium of $6.50 and for $6,380.41 of those for the improvement of Scottwood avenue, from Bancroft to Virginia street, par, interest and a premium of $3.50.

The auditor stated that these bonds bore 5 per cent. interest, payable every six months and ran about 5 years, and that heretofore there had been no premium on such bonds. A motion to accept the bid was carried.

No bid was received for the $1,894.08 of bonds for the improvement of Fifteenth street from Monroe to Washington, and the auditor was instructed to sell them at private sale at not less than par.

Butler Street Damages.

Assistant City Solicitor Watts presented a report of the verdict in the case against Foster and others to fix compensation for property and damages in the opening of Butler street, in Fassett's subdivision, amounting in all to $4,232.20. He stated that the awards the first time were about $3,000. There were costs of about $900, which the city would have to pay if the awards were not accepted. Otherwise it could pay to the property owners and then assess back to the property. He did not think the property could be got for less, as the court has set aside the first awards as inadequate. The street was nearly 1,600 feet long and took parts of two houses, about 15 cherry trees, 8 years old, a number of shade trees and a number of fences.

Mr. Heubrich thought the verdict had better be accepted, as money would be saved to the city by doing so.

A motion to accept the awards as now made was carried.

Salaries of Firemen.

An ordinance to amend the ordinance in regard to salaries of city officers was presented. Its object is to increase the salary of an assistant fire chief from $1,200 to $1,500 a year and pay the firemen by a sliding scale, giving new men $50 the first six months, $55 the second six months and $66.66 after the first year, instead of $65 to all, as at present. It was approved, and the committee adjourned.

BAD BLUNDER

In the Australian Ballot Law.

Tiffin, O., Nov. 15.—(Special)—Charles A. Strauch, of Fostoria, who was elected as justice of the peace of Loudon township, is uncertain whether he will continue in that office or not. It seems that the Australian ballot law does not provide for the election of justices of peace, there being no one to whom the returns are to be made nor any official authorized to issue certificates of election. So Loudon township will be minus a justice of peace until legislature convenes to correct the blunder it has made.

NATURAL GAS

Failing at St. Marys—Demand for Wood and Coal.

St. Marys, O., Nov. 15.—(Special)—So rapidly is natural gas beginning to fail that the gas trustees, at their meeting last night decided to shut it off from every factory in the city in order to supply the demand for private consumers. This is another unexpected blow, and is a step in the right direction. Wood and coal, of which there is neither in this city, will be in good demand again.

TIFFIN MAN

Seriously Injured by the Capsizing of a Hand Car.

Tiffin, O., Nov. 15.—Sunday evening a half dozen men of Attica were riding on a hand car on the Short Line railroad, when, by the sudden application of the brake, the car capsized, throwing the men with much force on the track, the car falling upon them. D. T. Heabler was the most seriously injured.

AN EVERYDAY HAT.

A felt round hat with velvet trimming is a feature of the fashionable girl's November outfit. The one from which I sketched this picture was red as to the felt, and was trimmed round with black silk material. It had a crown of black velvet. In front was a large bow of ribbon standing up very high, and a quill with a little bird put on so loosely that it dangled when the wearer walked. It looked as if the tiny creature was alive, and had alighted there. The sex is as ingenious as ever, you will observe, in fixing attention without seeming to mean it.

Here is an example of odd trickery. Gretchen braids are a new fad for young girls of just about the type of the one in the picture. To be exactly right, the braid must be light in quantity as well as color. Usually, the sex is proud of abundant hair, but not so when making a Gretchen braid. A girl well-known for her immense quantity of yellow hair was met in the street.

"However can you make such a lovely gretchen when you have so much hair?" was asked.

It was a lovely scant gretchen. The girl laughed, gave a queer little squirm, and said: "You won't tell?"

"So help me—hope I may die!"

"Well, the rest is down my back."

The other looked carefully. No hair was visible down her back except the lovely gretchen. Again she gave the queer little squirm. The other girl drew a long breath. "You don't say!" Then, after a pause, "Doesn't it tickle?"

THE CHINESE DUKES.

There are only two Chinese kung or dukes not of the royal blood. These are Yensheung Kung, the "Duke Transmitter of the Sage," the representative of Confucius, and the Hucheng Kung, "Pacifier of the Seas," the descendant of Hsang, conqueror of Formosa for the Manchus. The latter title is some two centuries old; the former was instituted in 1233.

"The Confucian Duke," as he is commonly styled by foreigners, enjoys a prestige which no change of dynasty affects, yet perhaps a native essayist, two or three years ago, took too audacious advantage of this fact. He had noticed that the ostensible unity of the Roman Catholics gave them an amount of power which he, as a Confucianist, could not but deprecate; he urged, therefore, that there be established throughout China a Confucian hierarchy (with Confucian bishops in partibus) and at the head of that hierarchy be placed the transmitter of the sage as an orthodox Chinese Pope.—Cornhill Magazine.

NIAGARA FALLS IS SLICK.

"The Niagara river, you will observe," said the guide up at the falls, "runs more rapidly on the American side than on the Canadian. This is natural. It is due to the larger degree of quickness in vogue in the United States. If the falls were entirely in the Dominion of Canada all the water that is bound for Lake Ontario would never get over the precipice and Lake Erie, would fill up and overflow the country and there wouldn't be any country."

"Thank heaven that this is the United States," said the Philadelphian.

"Not by a darn sight," retorted the guide, "if you want to fire off any gratitude you'd just better be glad it's in New York state. If the falls were in Philadelphia they'd be stopping to think all the time or going to sleep and deluge would come of it and there wouldn't be any Philadelphia.."

And then he resumed his monotonous chant of "And in the next cage you will find the Whirlpool rapids where Captain Webb——"

Three or four of the berries will kill a man as quickly as strychnine, and one has been known to kill a child in half an hour. BEHEADED AT MANILA.

The Fate of Three South Sea Pirates.

The Last of the English Convicts, the Rodrigue Brothers — The Native Cook Who Betrayed the Two Fiends Also Decapitated.

The remarkable piracy case of the Rodrigue brothers, two English ex-convicts who escaped from the penal colony of New Caladonia several years ago and went to Cape Town, Africa, where they worked in the diamond fields, afterward making their way to Tahiti, at which point they laid the boldest kind of plans for stealing a Tahiti schooner and becoming freebooters, must still be fresh in the mind of the newspaper readers. Many particulars of this wild story of the South seas were published last August, including the fact that the pirates after shooting the captain and supercargo and having the crew of four Tahiti native sailors on the schooner poisoned by the cook, had been arrested by officers of a Spanish colonial revenue cutter at Manilla on complaint of the native cook, Moloi, who made a confession implicating the Rodrigue brothers. His motive for telling of the crimes of his masters was not a desire for justice, but one of revenge inspired by the refusal of the pirates to give him a share of the $20,000 of which they had come into possession through stealing the schooner.

No further particulars reached here regarding the fate of the pirates until the steamer Rio de Janeiro arrived from the Orient on Sunday. Among the passengers was Miss L. J. Wyckoff, a medical missionary of Singapore, who brings the information that the pirates were executed at Manila during the last of August, the news reaching Singapore shortly before she left. Not only did the two Rodrigue brothers pay the penalty for their crimes, but Moloi, the native cook, who was made an accessory through threats against his life and his own desire to accumulate wealth, shared their fate. The men were executed in the native way, by having their heads chopped off in the same manner that Chinese pirates are beheaded at Kowloon city, opposite Hong Kong.

The Rodrigue brothers were given a full trial by the authorities at Manila and were sentenced to death upon the testimony of the cook, who, in his anxiety to convict his masters, so entangled himself that he was also sentenced to die.

On the morning of the execution the three pirates were taken from the jail and led into the public square, where the executioner stood ready with a long sword in his hands. The cook was the first to suffer the death penalty. With his hands bound behind his back and his feet tied together, he was compelled to kneel before the executioner. Moloi begged and cried for mercy, but found no one to intercede for him. The two pirate brothers looked stoically on, never moving a muscle and taking less interest in the tragic event than the spectators. Soldiers were drawn up in double lines in the form of a square, and outside the populace swarmed by thousands, attracted by the expected scene of death. The cook insisted upon keeping up his cries and yells while a government official was reading the death warrants, and was only silenced by the executioner stepping up to him as he knelt on the ground and striking him in the face, knocking him over. When he was placed on his knees again everything was in readiness. The executioner put his left hand on the man's head, bent it forward a little that the neck might be in the right position, and, stepping suddenly back, raised his sword and with a clean sweep cut the cook's head off. As the head rolled several feet away the dead body fell forward.

The Rodrigue brothers, both big, powerful men, were then led to a spot a few feet from the dead cook and compelled to kneel. Their thick, sunburnt necks were a little more of a job for the executioner. Each pirate had two men holding him, a mark was put on each neck, and at a word from the executioner the two attendants of the brothers jumped back and the sword swept off the pirate's head. Another word and the same sword had beheaded the last of those fiends, pirates who had shown such small regard for human life. Their offense was all the greater from the fact that they were highly educated, speaking a dozen languages, as well as South Sea island dialects, were men of splendid address, possessed of a great deal of ability, and at one time moved in refined society.

Moloi, the Tahiti cook, in his confession to the Spanish authorities told a story which, while highly interesting, shows what fiends in human form these Rodrigue brothers must have been. After leasing the schooner yacht Niualoaiti, belonging to the Tahiti native king, and getting it fitted out for an extensive trading voyage, the pirates put to sea. The schooner was formerly the Dolly, and was built and for a time owned by Capt. Matthew Turner, of this city. The Rodrigue brothers engaged a man named Costello as captain, and Willie Gibson Hall as supercargo. These two men had the confidence of the Tahiti business men who had been drawn into the trading venture by the Rodrigue brothers, who proved themselves to be familiar with the language and habits of the South Sea island natives, as well as being smooth talkers.

One week out of Papete, Moloi states that one of the two brothers came to him with a bottle of white powder, supposed to be strychnine, and told him to mix it in the curry prepared that evening for the crew's supper and also to put a little of the powder in some wine and give it to the crew to drink. Moloi claimed that at first he refused, when he was told he would be shot on the spot if he did not do as he was told, but if he would do as the brothers wanted him to he would be given a share of the profits of the trip. He decided to help the two pirates. When the evening meal was served in the cabin the captain and supercargo sat down with the two brothers, not suspecting the least thing wrong. The native crew at the same time were given their meal on deck. They were also taken with spasms in a few moments. Then the cook said he went into the cabin and made a sign to one of the two brothers, who got up and went on deck, where he saw the crew writhing in great agony. Returning to the cabin, he made a signal to his brother and the two pirates drew their pistols and shot the captain and supercargo dead before they could move from the table.

Not waiting to finish their supper, the two men went on deck to watch the crew die, leaving orders in the meantime with the cook to take the two corpses on deck and drop them overboard. Not a breath of wind was stirring, nor could a ripple be seen on the water. The sun was sinking to the horizon, lighting up the ocean for miles around with the deep, lurid glow that is so beautiful in the tropics just before twilight. These two human wretches watched the sailors in their death struggles and enjoyed with a devilish delight the excruciating sufferings of the dying men. Occasionally when one of the unfortunate victims in his agony would roll over on his face, one of the brothers would step up to him and with his foot turn the man over, that his distorted features might be more plainly seen and the wild, strange look in the eyes, speaking in dumb agony, show how fast the poison was taking effect.

A school of sharks had been playing around the schooner for a couple of hours. The cook was called and a native sailor ordered thrown overboard. The man was still squirming on the deck, when Moloi grabbed him and dropped him into the ocean. With yells and laughter the pirates watched the sharks close around the body and devour it. The captain and supercargo's body was then given to the sharks, after which the four remaining natives as they died were also cast to the sharks. When the ghastly performance was finished the two brothers went into the cabin and had the cook dish up a second supper, which they washed down with wine. For the next four days the pirates, with the assistance of the cook, navigated the schooner to one of the Pomoto islands, where six natives were taken on board as sailors.

Then it was that the pirates started out as big traders. They visited many of the South Sea islands, entertained the chiefs royally and entered upon a course of riotous living. It was decided to run to Manila as a place of amusement. In the meantime the cook asked for his division of the pirates' spoils, saying he wanted to quit the party. He was refused any share and told he could not leave. Then it was that Moloi decided to await his opportunity and give the pirates into the hands of the first war vessel that he came across. The chance occurred at Manila, for when the Niualoaiti arrived there a Spanish revenue cutter was at anchor. A big fair was in progress at the time, and the two pirates lost no time in getting ashore to join in the festivities.

When the way was clear the cook, burning with a desire for revenge, took the schooner's yawl and pulled over to the Spanish cutter, where the captain heard his story, went on board the schooner, which he seized, and sent six marines in charge of a lieutenant ashore to arrest the two pirates brothers. Moloi went along to identify them. The two men were found in an Oriental booth drinking wine and enjoying themselves. They were placed in prison at Manila, their trial followed, and, with the cook were beheaded. Moloi never figured when he gave the information that led to the execution of his masters that he might have to die with them.

Measures have been taken by persons acting for the Tahiti native king to recover possession of the schooner, with what success is not known, but the chances are the vessel has been duly confiscated by the Spanish authorities, who will continue to retain possession of it.

CHEERFULNESS.

The Grace Is Blessed for Both Body and Mind.

There is no virtue that has been more celebrated by poets and novelists than cheerfulness. "Keep a cheerful frame of mind," says one, "for that is the sunshine that never fails; it will enrich others; it will endow thee with the thousandfold reflection of thine own light from the faces of others which it hath already transfigured."

It is the root of constancy; for there is no more shifty and unreliable person than your curmudgeon, who is the slave of his own caprices; it is the best assurance of life, health and wealth; it is the sign and evidence of a steady and energetic mind. It will make a fruitful youth, a happy manhood and a serene old age. It is the "open sesame" to many secrets which the discontented and peevish strive hard to discover but always miss; it is the magic medium of friendship, if not even of love. Where there may be lack of special tastes and sympathies, cheerfulness will do much to supply their place. As water to the flower, so is cheerfulness to the mind. It keeps all green and sweet, and sends forth a gracious savor that is imperceptible, but wins all by its perfume.

By cheerfulness a man's powers of work and production are doubled; he has, as it were, taken in a set of working partners most ready to aid him in every task and enterprise. Cheerfulness keeps all the faculties in good condition, so that they are ever ready to do their utmost without strain.

Even from the lips of those who have failed to make the most of this virtue, we have the most earnest tributes to it. Witness Thomas Carlyle, who has devoted to it a few very fine passages in "Past and Present" and in "The Life of Schiller;" while his letters attest a most lively appreciation of its value as a factor in life.

Goethe (from whom on these points Carlyle learned so much, although too often he failed practically to apply the lesson) has declared that "Cheerfulness is the mother of every virtue." All the most active men in the world's history—those who have achieved most and acted most beneficently on their fellow men—have been loud in praise of cheerfulness. If one reads the early English dramatists one will find that, though they often erred and went too far, their ambition was to be ministers of cheerfulness, to promote generosity, good fellowship, social toleration in all directions. Certainly this is true of Shakespeare, of Dekker, of Middleton, of Ford and Ben Jonson. And here they are at one with the poets. We have the following from the sweet if somewhat tricky muse of Herrick:

In all thy need be thou possest
Still with a well prepared breast;
Nor let the shackles make thee sad;
Thou canst but have what others had.
And this for comfort thou must know;
Times that are ill won't still be so;
Clouds will not ever pour down rain,
A sullen day will clear again;
First peals of thunder we must hear,
Then flutes and harps shall strike the ear.

The dominating note of the Addisonian literature is a gracious gregarious cheerfulness; truth is robed, if not in motley, then in bright colors, and the sad facts of life are honestly set forth with a beaming smile. It was a rule of the house then to be quietly cheerful; the pages of Steele and Goldsmith attest it as well as those of Addison and Jonson. The cheerfulness of the latter, indeed, considering his morbid bodily condition, is as remarkable as anything else about him, and his patient surrender of his own will in his own house in favor of a lot of nondescript pensioners, to whom he never spoke but cheerfully and kindly, is a proof that he practiced as well as preached. Brave and kindly bluff old Samuel.

If cheerfulness, according to Solomon, doeth good like a medicine, no profession is more called on to have it in their aid than medical men. They cannot bring a better recipe in supplement of their prescriptions. Bitter must be the cup that a smile will not sweeten. Men who take gloomy views, who never see the bright side, who have, as it would seem, a delight in making known the worst—forerunners of misfortune, croaking ravens of destiny—ought to be banished from the medical profession. We have known cases where great learning and skill were made of non-effect or nearly so, by a most perverse tendency to tell the worst. Sir Robbert Christison, the great Scottish physician, who perhaps did more than any man of his generation to test the specific actions of poisons, even on his own person and often at the risk of his life, says, in one of the letters which his sons some time ago gave to the world through the Messrs. Blackwood:

"It is sheer nonsense to get into low spirits and quite wrong to look to the shady instead of the sunny side of the future. I was long ago prone to that error myself, but I was lucky enough to discover the mistake, and you have no idea how life improves under the opposite habit—health too, I should think, and longevity—nay, probably even wealth, conformably with one's greater vigor and determination. The real truth is, this earth is a much snugger and more agreeable residence than a certain class of poets and moralists pretend."

Thus it is plainly our interest as well as our duty, under all the circumstances of life, to cultivate cheerfulness; for we may be sure that the sunshine with which we gladden other's lives will be reflected upon our own with a twofold power and benediction.

Is undoubtedly a disease of the blood, and as such only a reliable blood purifier can effect a perfect cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best blood-purifier, and it has cured many very severe cases of catarrh. Try it.

MIXED RACES OF INDIA.

Eurasia, the Peculiar Caste that Pervades All Parts of India and Is Almost Impossible to Invade.

Eurasia has no boundaries. It lies, a varying social fact, all over India, thick in the great cities, thickest in Calcutta, where the conditions of climate and bread winning are most suitable; where, moreover, Eurasian charities are most numerous. Wherever Europeans have come and gone, these people have sprung up in weedy testimony of them—these people who do not go, who have received somewhat in the feeble inheritance of their blood that makes it possible for them to live and die in India. Nothing will ever exterminate Eurasia; it clings to the sun and the soil, and is marvelously propagative within its own borders. There is no remote chance of its ever being reabsorbed by either of its original elements; the prejudices of both Europeans and natives are far too vigorous to permit much intermarriage with a jat of people who are neither one nor the other. Occasionally an up-country planter, predestined to a remote and "jungly" existence, comes down to Calcutta and draws his bride from the upper circles of Eurasia—this not so often now as formerly. Occasionally, too, a young shopman with the red of Scotland fresh in his cheeks is carried away by his landlady's daughter; while Tommy Atkins falls a comparatively easy prey. The sight of a native with a half-caste wife is much rarer, for there Eurasian as well as native antipathy comes into operation. The whole conscious inclination of Eurasian life, in habits, tastes, religion, and most of all in ambition, is toward the European and away from the native standards.—Sara Jeannette Duncan, in the Popular Science Monthly.

POOR M'KINLEY.

The votes have been counted,
Election is o'er,
The ghost of protection will
Haunt us no more.
The wolves of monop'ly
Are driven away,
Yet "William McKinley
Has nothing to say."

The country has risen
And cast off its chains
Escaped from its thralldom,
Its labors and pains;
Walked out from the darkness
Right into the day,
Yet "William McKinley
Has nothing to say."

From far California
The glad tidings come;
Illinois gives it answer
With fife and with drum.
The northwest uprising
Shakes Elkins and Quay,
Yet "William McKinley
Has nothing to say."

Protection's great prophet
Sits brooding alone;
From pale lips there flutters
A heart-breaking moan.
Jim Blaine kneels beside him,
And cries, "Let us pray,"
But "William McKinley
Has nothing to say."
—Hyder Ali in Chicago Dispatch.

THE LOSS OF THE PARAGON.

Ralph Nutford was the fifth officer on board the steamer Paragon, one of the fastest boats of the Cable line of steamers, which plied between New York and Seringapatam.

The captain of the vessel, whose name was Clements Lane, entered heart and soul into its profession, and thought there was nothing like it. His fifth officer however, didn't much care about it; he had been, as youngest of a large family, pitch-forked into the employment of the Cable line by a rich uncle, and being young, good-looknig, and human, found his profession remarkably dull.

"You see," he remarked to a chance acquaintance, who had introduced himself to him as they lunched at the same table in a restaurant one day, shortly before the Paragon was to start on the homeward journey, "you see, we junior officers don't have much fun on board. The seniors, if they care about it, can get up no end of amusements with the fairer section of the passengers; but what chance has a fifth officer?"

The genial stranger was properly sympathetic, and, after making a few more inquries concerning the arrangements and discipline on board the Paragon, he nodded "Good-day" and disappeared.

On the evening before the departure of the Paragon, a gorgeous specimen of the wealthy Yankee, accompanied by a lovely creature of some 19 summers and an equal number of winters, came on board, and, addressing Ralph Nutford, who was standing near the gangway, asked that worthy whether he was captain of the boat. On his replying that he was the fifth officer the Yankee remarked:

"Well, sir, I'd be obliged if you could take me to the captain, under whose charge I want to place this young lady, whom I may as well introduce to you—as you're one of the officers—right now. Miss Nellie Robertson, my niece; Mr.—Nutford—thank you—fifth officer of this vessel.

Whilst the captain was being found, Miss Nellie Robertson was doing great execution with her great soft eyes, and by the time Capt. Clements Lane had duly identified the fair passenger in his list, and had undertaken to take charge of her during the voyage, the impressionable fifth officer was quite ready to put her up on a coil of rope—no pedestal being handy—and fall down and worship her.

Next morning they were well out to sea when the captain's protege came on deck.

Gracious! how beautiful she was; and when she went up to Mr. Nutford, and, putting both her hands into his, captured his soul with a look, and requested to be shown the vessel, the fifth officer could have clasped her in his arms, and sprung overboard, like a new Charmides taking his Pallas with him.

His joy, however, was shortlived, for in the midst of their peregrinations the captain met them, and, telling off Mr. Nutford to go aft and see to something about which there was no earthly hurry, undertook to relieve him of his duties as showman.

As they came up the companion, Nellie, stumbling against Ralph, squeezed his hand. The flirtation of these two young things for the rest of the day had to be pantomime; it was, therefore, the more unrestrained.

Ralph didn't worship the sea, but he was a conscientious officer, and wouldn't let his love, which grew fiercer and ercer, interfere with his duties.

Besides, the captain took the greatest pains about the fair charge, and kept a sharp lookout upon his fifth officer whose eloquent looks he considered to be in the worst possible taste.

An opportunity occurred to them, however, just before the last meal, when they met under the shelter of a friendly stateroom.

"I must go away," he whispered, after they had been exchanging confidences for some time. "When can we meet again? I shall be on watch to-night, and shall wander up and down thinking of nothing but you. Come on deck early to-morrow and I shall be free."

"No," she said, "let me come on deck whilst you are on watch. It will be a very dark night, and I'll wear a dark frock. There will be no moon—there was none last night. Do let me come."

"Impossible, darling. No one can let you come on deck save the captain. It would be ruin to me if you came without leave. You wouldn't like that, dear, would you?"

"Oh, very well." How maddening those lips were when they pouted. "I've no doubt the captain will let me come up during his watch, and I'll come then. I don't believe you care for me one bit. There will be no one on this deck but the two men watching with you, and they couldn't see me. Well, shall I come during your watch or the captain's?"

Nothing more was said—in words. It was a pitch dark night, though the air was clear of fog. The lovers sat beneath the bridge, and he told her in whispers all about himself, and how fatal it would be if it were discovered that he had yielded to her prayer and let her come to him on deck.

Suddenly there was a great jar and a dull, crashing report.

Nellie crouched in the shadow as Nutford sprang to his feet and learned from the men on watch that the Paragon had been run into. In a moment all was confusion.

The captain, cool as if he had been taking his seat at dinner, came on deck and said, in a loud, calm voice, to the terrified passengers:

"We have been run into and the Paragon is sinking. There is no danger to us personally. The sea is calm and the boats are in perfect order and preparation for such an accident. In an hour we shall be on board the ship that has run us down, which is waiting for us close by."

Then under his calm and careful orders, the passengers embarked in the Paragon's boats, and in a very short time the little flotilla was pulling away from the disappearing liner.

But the ship that had sunk them was nowhere to be found. Favored by the darkness, she had got away without stopping to learn what had become of the Paragon and her living freight.

No inquiry had yet been made into the disaster, but the two men on watch, who were in the same boat with Nutford and Nellie, said they had suddenly seen the lights of a steamer close to them, and as they sprang forward to hail her and give the alarm she had struck them, and when they had recovered from their momentary consternation she had disappeared.

"You hear?" said Nellie to the terror-stricken officer, whose side she had never left, "they didn't see her till she struck us. You must support their statement or you are a ruined man. Your certificate will be canceled, and, oh, Realph, if the truth should be known, think of my everlasting shame!"

Morning broke, and before any one had had time to suffer much a passing steamer, bound on the same journey, picked up the whole company.

The home voyage was satisfactorily accomplished, and Ralph and Nellie, the former no longer hampered by the duties of navigation, had ample opportunities of carrying on their love affair, which had been accompanied by such an overwhelming catastrophe.

Nutford easily succumbed to Nellie's soft casuistry, for to own his neglect of duty would be ruin to his career and hers, and would render their marriage, which was to him a foregone conclusion, an absolute impossibility.

A minute inquiry was naturally held at Seringapatam, at the conclusion of which it was decided, though in official language, that there was some mystery somewhere, and a good deal more in the circumstances of the collision than met the eye or ear; but that there was no direct evidence reflecting upon the conduct of the fifth officer, who came home from the inquiry a man about whom nothing definite is said, but a good deal is implied, and in this unenviable state of mind he found waiting for him Nellie, his affianced bride, and a blue envelope.

The letter was from a firm of solicitors, announcing that his old uncle had died, leaving him his sole heir.

"Thank Heaven!" he exclaimed. "Poor old gentleman, he has done me a good turn at the moment I required it the most. Nellie, sweetheart, I am a rich man. Tomorrow I throw up this profession, which, if I cared little about before, I loathe now. In three weeks, darling, we will be married, and then we'll go abroad for six months. Does this suit your views?"

Two months later Nellie—Mrs. Ralph Nutford—was installed in an exquisite little apartment looking out of the Champs Elysees, and her husband, who had been down to the Riviera to look out for a permanent habitation for himself and his bride, was hastening back to her in a first-class carriage on the Paris-Marseilles railway.

In the corner opposite to him sat an American, who had entered into conversation with him, and the conversation had turned upon the shipping at Marseilles.

"You seem to know a thing or two about boats, stranger," observed the American.

"Well, I ought to, seeing that I was connected with a line for some years."

"You were? Then you must have come across some funny yarns in connection with steamers. Why, bless you, I could tell you a story but, there, it wouldn't interest you, perhaps."

"On the contrary," replied Mr. Nutford, "I should very much like to hear some of your experiences. We have the end of a long journey before us."

"Oh, they are not my experiences, but a friend of mine from Chicago told me a rum story about the cable line a few days ago. Remember the Paragon? Went down mysteriously beginning of the year. Yes, you know. I'll tell you a story about that if you like. It happened like this; but mind, you must promise me on your honor never to let this go an further."

"All right."

"Col. Jedediah Spinks got planted last fall with a huge consignment of hides; got 'em as his share of a steal, or something of that kind and all his pals laughed at him because they said even he couldn't get a profit out of 'em.

"So what d'ye think he does? Ships 'em all aboard the Paragon as cargo, declares 'em as Indian bullion embroideries, and insures them against all risks at $500,000.

"He spotted the Paragon because there was a young fool of a fifth officer on board named Mudford or Redford, or something like that, who was just the kind of soft he wanted, and he had him sounded, to make sure, one day by a friend, who went and sat with him and entered into conversation—just as you and I have done.

"And then the colonel got a girl, lovely and without relations, with plenty of cheek and pluck and beauty, but down on her luck and hard up for cash and excitement, and sent her on board as his 'niece, making the voyage to Seringapatam under the care of the captain!'

"She made love to the young spark, playing the captain off against him and got him to herself on deck one dark night when there was no one else on deck but two men, sent on as part of the crew by the colonel himself, and instructed by him.

"While she flirted with him, well out of sight under the bridge, these two men let down over the side a dynamite machine and blew the blessed old boat to pieces, and then cocked up a yarn about a mysterious vessel that had come upon them suddenly, run them down and got away clear. I knew you'd laugh.

"This young fool, in no end of a funk about his certificate, supports their yarn, and, of course, never says a word about the girl. They come over; the loss is proved bona fide accidental, and Col. Jedediah nets $500,000 clear profit bang out of the insurance offices!

"But wait a minute. The end's the tragic part of it. The beautiful girl, with her marvelous talents, that would make her an empress if she wanted to be one, goes and falls in love—the real thing—with the man, and won't touch a penny of the share of the plunder. Waste of genius, I call it. But all women are alike. And, egad, sir, she's married him!

"What d'ye think of that for a yarn?"

"Most startling and amusing. But here is Par's. Thank you so much for your delightful company. Your story has, indeed, interested me greatly."—Boston Globe.

ANSWERED.

A little girl with golden hair
Sits playing with her dolls,
While on the sultry summer air,
Resound the hawker's calls.

A peddler now comes up the street,
All laden down with bags;
He moves along with shuffling feet,
And calls out: "R-a-a-g-s! Rags!"

Up from the floor where lie her dolls,
Quick jumps blithe little Jenny;
She taps the window pane and calls:
"N-o-o! we don't want any!"

You will remember the condition I was in five years ago, when I was afflicted with a combination of diseases, and thought there was NO HELP FOR ME. I tried all kinds of medicines, and scores of eminent physicians. My nerves were prostrated, producing dizziness, heart trouble and all the ills that make life miserable. I commenced to take and in three months I WAS PERFECTLY CURED. In my travels each year, when I see the thousands of physical wrecks, suffering from nervous prostration, taking prescriptions from local physicians who have no knowledge of their case, and whose death is certain, I feel like going to them and saying, "GET DR. MILES' NERVINE AND BE CURED." In my profession, where there are so many suffering from nervous prostration and nervous exhaustion, brought on by the overwork, men character of the business engaged in, I would recommend "MILES' NERVINE" as a sure cure for all suffering from these causes.

DR. MILES' NERVINE

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven western points are 442,808 bu less than on the Tuesday in 1891. The northwest receipts are 363,832 bu less and at five other western points 79,076 bu less than in 1891.

American and Canadian stocks show an increase in October of 23,000,000 bu. wheat and 350,000 bbls. of flifiour. These results, to some minds in the deal, are bearish and depressing, but they do not turn a hair, white or black; that is to say, it does not increase our surplus a bushel. The low price—instead of a high price—has been the stimulating cause of the great movement which has removed the wheat from the farmers' bins to the great public elevators. They have been obliged to sell much more of the surplus to meet their debts than if a higher price had prevailed. We believe the surplus has been largely marketed, unless the previous crop and the reserve at last July were greatly underestimated.

The importations of flour and wheat into the United Kingdom of near one millions of bushels and the increase besides of about one and one-quarter millions of bushels on ocean passage, following the increase in the visible yesterday have been more than the bulls expected and more than they could stand, and all markets on this side have broken ranks and run. The decline to-day has wiped out all the gain of last weey.

Corn has also been a weak sister with wheat, and has declined. The foundations of the grain markets seem to be weak, notwithstanding the low prices of wheat.

There is nothing in closing markets abroad worthy of note.

In New York December wheat closed at 76 1-8c, a loss of 7-8c, and May at 80 1-8c, a loss of 1c. November corn at 49 3-4c, a loss of 3-4c; December at 50 1-4c, a loss of 1-2c; May at 52 1-4c, a loss of 5-8c. December oats at 36 1-4c, a loss of 1-4c.

In Chicago November wheat closed at 71c; December at 72c, a loss of 1-4c; May at 78 1-4c, a loss of 5-8c. November corn at 40 5-8c, a loss of 7-8c; December at 41c, a loss of 3-4c; May at 46 1-4c, a loss of 5-8c. December oats at 31c, a loss of 1-2c.

In Toledo—Notwithstanding the discouraging decline there has been a better business reported to-day. Prices have made a break here, and we close on May 3-4c lower, which is less than markets east or west; December also closes 3-4c lower. On the call December sold at 73 3-4c. On the regular board December sold at 73 3-4c and closed at 73 1-2c; May sold at 79 7-8c, and closed at 1-2c.

Cash wheat was a little more active at a break in prices of 1 1-4c. Small sales of No. 2 soft at 73 1-4c to 73 3-4c, and at close 72 1-2c was the market. No. 3 soft sold at 66c steady. No. 4 soft at 57 1-2c. Hard No. 2, 68 3-4c. No. 3 at 65 3-4c.

Corn—No. 3 at 42 1-2c. Rye—No. 3 at 48 1-2c.

Clover seed seemed to be infected with the general weakness and is 5c to 10c lower. On the call January sold at $7.82 1-2. On the regular board December sold at $7.75; January at $7.80; February at $7.85; March at $7.90. Nothing reported in cash sales.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 631,608 bu, and at five other western points 421,754 bu; total, 1,053,362 bu. On the corresponding Tuesday in 1891 the receipts at the same points were 1,496,170 bu., including 995,440 bu. of northwest wheat, leaving 500,730 bu. as the movement from the five other western points.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were 38,279 bu., and flour to an aggregate of 80,000 bu. Exports of corn 182,267 bu.

English markets as reported herein are dull an dlower for wheat and corn.

CURIOSITIES OF NAVIGATION.

It would be worse than useless to endeavor to trace marine architecture to its original inception. The Egyptians and the Phoenicians are joint claimants for the honor of the invention of water craft, but it is highly probable that they originated at widely separated points at about the same time. Grecian fable makes Pyrrhon the discoverer of the art of bending planks by fire so that they could be advantageously used in ship-building. The beakhead, rudder and anchor are claimed by the Egyptians; Crete claims the invention of masts, crossyards and other minor nautical devices.

Isis, queen of Egypt, in the year of the world 2230 is said to have first taught the use of sails. The Emperor Julian caused medals to be struck in her honor, showing her seated upon the prow of a ship. Jason built the first "long ship"—prior to this all ships were as round as tubs. Copper and brass nails and fastenings were substituted for iron about the time of Nero. The first sails used were made of the skins of animals. Usons, a Phoenician, is represented as being the first person to venture the use of a canoe hollowed from a tree trunk.

ALL ABOUT A DRESS.

Mrs. Browne's new dress has caused considerable talk of late. She said it cost her less than a dollar, but none of her friends thought that possible.

The secret is out at last, however, for Mrs. Browne told a friend that the dress was really her faded gray serge that she dyed over with fast brown diamond dye and brightened up with a few new ribbons. "Diamond Dyes," Mrs. Browne says, "are made especially for home use and never fail to give good results if the simple directions are followed."

Do Any of These Hit Your Case?

Thousands Have Been Spared Months of Distress and Suffering by the Use of a Simple Remedy.

Is Your Blood Pure, Vitality Low?

Use Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

I was a weak and miserable man completely run down a year ago last spring. I took DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY; it made me well and strong, increased my weight to 171 lbs., and although I am 71 years old I can do a good day's work with ease and comfort.

A. M. GERMWOOD, Clinton Corners, N. Y.

Are Your Kidneys Disordered, Bowels Constipated?

Use Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

I was very sick with Kidney Disease; had three different Doctors attending me, but I continued to grow worse. I then in despair took the matter in my own hands and commenced using DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY, and before I had used the first bottle I was much improved, and another bottle completely restored me to health. I have recommended it to dozens of people and have yet to hear of one that has not been benefitted from its use.

Jos. McGIFFERT, Catskill, N. Y.

Do You Have Pains in the Back, Headache, Dingy Colored Urine? Beware of these, they are Symptoms of Bright's Disease.

Use Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy.

I suffered from the above symptoms, neglected them and was finally obliged to take to my bed, which I kept for three years. Six different physicians attended me and they all pronounced my trouble Bright's Disease. I had given up all hope of ever being cured, when I happened to see advertised DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY. I bought a bottle, and when that was used I found myself a little better. I kept on using it and in a short time I was entirely cured. Can now work all day and weigh thirty-five pounds more than I ever did. If any one who may chance to read this has any of these symptoms, try this medicine for it will save your life as it has mine.

Mrs. N. E. WHITNEY, Hillsboro, N. Y.

It always benefits or cures when given a trial. WE GUARANTEE IT.

EX-COUNCILMAN SWAIN

Dropped From the Roll of Membership

In the First Baptist Church by the Officiary of the Organization.

Ex-Councilman R. P. Swain has been excluded from the First Baptist church, and his name dropped from the roll of membership.

Mr. Swain was not only a prominent member, but he was also clerk. He resigned the clerkship three weeks ago, but his name remained on the list as a member until a few days ago.

Mr. Swain when informed of the action taken meekly acquiesed, and agreed it was the only and proper course.

The pastor, deacons and members generally feel only sorrow for the necessity which forced the action to be taken and still entertain for the erring man kindly feelings.

TOLD BY A BOSTON DRUMMER.

"There are some funny characters out west still," said a Boston drummer at the Adams house yesterday, "and some of these preserve their individuality in spite of their present surroundings. When I was in Denver I met the editor of the Great Divide, and he is a curious combination. He wears a wild cowboy hat, has a gun on his desk, and when a compositor displeases him, fires a shot or two at him to relieve his mind. He can 'sling ink,' as he calls it, with the best writers in the country, and has a pet rattlesnake in one of his pockets to entertain those who call in with poetry which is not up to his standard. When his paper, the Great Divide, was started four years ago, he made all the necessary arrangements but forgot to choose a name. Nobody thought of this till they were all ready to print, and then the foreman asked what the name was to be. 'H—,' said this western editor, 'I had never thought of that. Say, you christen it.' The foreman could not think of a name, and all went out and had a drink to stimulate their imaginations. But it was no use. Finally it was decided to throw dice, and whoever won was to name the paper or be shot on the spot. The printer's devil won the throw and said before there was time to shoot: 'Call it the Great Divide,' and that is how the paper was named, for the editor told me himself in Denver. The appropriateness of the name was not discovered until afterwards."—Boston Herald.

A PROUD INDIAN PRINCESS.

It is told of the beautiful Princess Ahmadee of India that when she was first brought to England she refused to allow herself to be presented to Queen Victoria, saying, to the horror of her attendants, that the caste of her race forbade her to look upon her inferiors. It was only by persistent entreaties that the proud little beauty could be induced to obey the queen's summons to Windsor, and even when she did deign to confront her majesty nothing could induce her to offer the slightest token of respect for the sovereign of the people who had deposed the hereditary rulers of India.

At first glance one might well be surprised at the little semblance of an Indian princess in the attire, if not the features, of this charming scion of eastern royalty. Delhi, however, long since yielded to the forms of western civilization, and is to-day a thoroughly Europeanized city as a result of British rule.

A DISMANTLED ESTATE.

Universal sympathy is expressed in London with the new Duke and Duchess of Sutherland. For, while they succeed to the ownership of Dunrobin castle in Scotland, Trentham hall in Staffordshire, and the grand palace known as the Stafford house in London, all three of which form part of the entailed property, the late duke has left the entire contents of these three places, including the furniture, the pictures, the tapestries and the bric-a-brac, and even the china and plate, to his widow, saye the Marquise de Fontenoy.

The result is that the young ducal couple will find themselves face to face with walls that are entirely bare, and that it will cost them a perfect fortune to make any one of these three places mentioned habitable.

MOTHERS! MOTHERS!

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain; cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

PIETY AT HOME.

Religion is majestic in the state; it may be grand in the church—in the church building a great institution, in the state swaying the destinies of millions of men. But piety looks lovelier and sweeter at home; not arrayed in her court dress, not set off in her church regimentals, but dressed in her homely week day, work day clothes. It is a little striking that the word piety, which so often rings in the Christian church, is mentioned only once in the English Bible, and then coupled with the admonition to show itself first at home.—Theodore Parker.

THANKSGIVING DINNERS

Will be made more than ever memorable with the assistance of the Martha Washington cook-book, which is sent free to any address on receipt of 10 cents in stamps by E. O. McCormick, G. P. & T. Agent Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad, Cincinnati, O. The C., H. & D. edition of the famous cook book contains 320 pages of old and tried recipes, fully illustrated. Be thankful, too, that the superb train service of the C., H. & D. via Cincinnati to the south make a journey to the milder climates of southland comfortable and pleasureable.

No well regulated household should be without Angostura Bitters, the celebrated appetizer. Manufactured by Dr. J. G. B. Siegert & Sons. Ask your druggist.

LACK AGE.

"The trouble with you New Yorkers is, Quill," said the man from Boston—they had been looking over Trinity church—"that your buildings lack age; they are not venerable enough to command the respect of the soul instinct with the ideals of all that is hallowed by the past. Now, there is the Old South—"

"But what's the matter with that?" interposed Quill—they were strolling toward the Battery, and were opposite 45 Broadway—"what's the matter with that? There's Adams Express company. There couldn't be anything much older or more venerable than Adam, could there?"—New York Times.

HE STOPPED FOR CAUSE.

A nervous little man sat on one of the cross seats on the top of an omnibus the other day back to back with a young woman of the "sweet girl graduate" species. The little man felt a piece of cloth tickle his neck, and thinking the ends of his cravat were sticking out he began to stuff the cloth down between the collar and waistcoat. He was nearly scared out of his seat a minute later by hearing the girl exclaim in a loud voice:

"Now you stop! Leave my hair ribbon alone!"

The small man apologized and got off at once.

TREMENDOUS VOTE

Cast at the Election Last Tuesday.

Evidence of Cleveland's Popularity.

Interesting Figures Gathered From the States and Tabulated for Bee Readers.

Washington, Nov. 14.—An analysis of the vote of over 12,000,000 American citizens last Tuesday show how complete and sweeping was the political revolution which overwhelmed the republican party, and drove it not only from the control of the executive branch of the government, but from its position in the senate, where the republicans imagined they had safely entrenched themselves in power for many years to come by the admission of six sage brush and jack-rabbit territories in the Reed congress, two of them at least having less voters than an ordinary congressional district in Pennsylvania or Ohio.

Not counting Ohio and California, where the official vote will be required to determine the result, Cleveland carried twenty-two states, Harrison thirteen and Weaver six, the vote of Michigan being evenly split. In 1888 Cleveland carried eighteen and Harrison twenty states. Geographically Cleveland has secured the 159 votes from the solid south and an even 100 from the north against an insignificant total for Harrison of 121.

The expert political statisticians here, from the returns and private telegrams received, figure that Cleveland's popular plurality over Harrison will approach if not reach 550,000. Add to this Weaver's pluralities in the six states carried by him (30,000), and it foots up a total of almost 600,000 popular majority against the republican party. Omitting Ohio and California, where the majority will only be a thousand or so either way, the best revised figures give the pluralities by states as follows:

The heaviest reverses suffered by Harrison were in New York, where a majority of 13,000 four years ago was transformed into a majority of 40,000 for Cleveland; in Illinois, where a majority of 22,000 was swept away and a democratic majority of 10,000 substituted; in Wisconsin, where 21,000 republican majority collapsed, and in its place appeared 5,000 democratic plurality; in Ohio, where 20,000 majority disappeared; in Kansas, where 80,000 majority was reduced to nothing; in Minnesota, where 18,000 majority was cut in half, and in Colorado, where 13,000 majority was reversed. It is in fact one unbroken story of republican majorities reduced, wiped out or reversed, from Maine to California, from the lakes to the gulf—defeat, disaster, rout—everywhere.

The total vote in several states will not be at hand for some weeks, but from all sections of the country come the reports that it was phenomenally heavy, showing that the people were doing a deal of deep thinking during what the politicians called the "apathetic" campaign, and came out and voted with an impetuosity never before equalled. It is believed that the total vote in the United States will reach, if not surpass, 12,500,000. Four years ago it ran close to 11,000,000, and eight years ago just exceeded 10,000,000. In 1884 Cleveland's popular majority was 63,000; four years later, when he was defeated, it reached 98,000. This year it will reach 550,000. On the basis of 12,500,000 votes this would show a gain of 1,000,000 over Cleveland's vote of four years ago and a republican gain of 500,000. In other words, the democratic vote in four increased 20 per cent. while the republican vote lagged back and hardly showed a 10 per cent. increase. For 12 years prior to 1892, the average increase in the total vote of the country at each presidential election was about 10 per cent.

There have only been two other great political "landslides" since the foundation of the government. The first was in 1840, when Benjamin Harrison's grandfather was elected by a landslide as big as the one that defeated his grandson last Tuesday, and the second occurred in 1852, twelve years later, when Gen. Winfield Scott went down along with the old whig party. But in 1840, although William Henry Harrison had but 234 electoral votes against 60 for Van Buren his popular majority was less than 150,000, and in 1852, when Pierce defeated Scott with 254 votes in the electoral college against 42 for the latter, his popular majority was a little more than 200,000. Cleveland's reaches considerably over 500,000.

The capture of the senate is the brightest gem in the crown of Tuesday's glorious victory, as it at last places the democratic party in undisputed possession of every branch of the government. The present senate stands 47 republicans, 39 democrats, 2 farmers' alliance—a republican majority of eight. There are 25 senators, not re-elected, whose terms expire March 4. Of these 17 come from states previously controlled by republicans: Rhode Island, Washington, North Dakota, Minnesota, Massachusetts, California, Maine, Connecticut, New York, Nebraska, Vermont, Pennsylvania, Montana, Wisconsin, Nevada, Wyoming and Kansas. The eight democratic senators will either be re-elected or have democratic successors. They come from Tennessee, New Jersey, Missouri, Delaware, Florida, Texas and Indiana. Beside these eight, the democrats will gain one each from California, Montana, New York, Wisconsin and Wyoming, in each of which states the republicans have lost the legislature. This will give the democrats 13 of the new senators to be elected—a gain of 5. The republicans will also lose senators from Nebraska, Nevada and Kansas, which go to the populists, so that the next senate will stand: Democrats 44, republicans 39, populists 5, giving Vice President Stevenson the casting vote should the populists combine with the republicans. As the third party men are, however, as violently opposed to the republican party on the vital issues involved in the campaign as the democrats, their votes can be counted upon in case of necessity.

In the house the democratic majority of 146 is cut down to 95, a majority such as the democrats never had in a presidential year. The democrats thought it would not exceed 25 or 30, while the republicans claimed the entire democratic majority would be wiped out. The present house stands 234 democrats, 89 republicans and 9 farmers' alliance. The next house, of which the membership has been raised to 356 by the new apportionment, will stand 225 democrats, 125 republicans, 6 populists, giving the democrats a majority of 95 over all.

No political party in this country except the democratic party, founded as it is on the basis principles of the American republic, has ever survived a landslide like that of last Tuesday, when it was on the under side of the slide. The democrats suffered the defeat of 1840, but 12 years later they crushed their adversaries, Scott and the whig party, beneath a defeat that left the old party of Clay and protection, not a leg to stand on, and, within eight years, it had ceased to exist. The republican party is now 36 years old. It outlived its usefulness soon after the war, but the possession and use of the federal machinery, and the vivid memory of the issues of the war of which it got the usufruct, sufficed to keep it in power, until its aims and objects changed, and an unwholly alliance with tariff monopoly disgusted many of its most distinguished members, until they deserted it in this campaign as the rats desert a sinking ship, while the people in their wrath rose up and administered to it the most sweeping and far-reaching defeat in the history of American politics.

It remains to be seen whether the republican party will now shut up shop and quit.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may well be termed "Perfection."

WHAT A LITTLE WILL DO.

A Few Suggestions as to the Great Effect of Little Things.

A little care will save you much annoyance.

A little neglect of some simple duty may lead to a disaster which would impair your life.

A little kindness to a fellow creature may cause you little effort and may result in untold good.

A little attention to the right thing at the right time may result in great things to you at the proper time.

A little chill may seem trifling, but it may be the first symptom of pneumonia, possibly of death.

A little prompt attention when you first feel chilly, is by all means the thing you should do, and do at once.

A little pure medicinal stimulant taken promptly will drive away the chill, restore the circulation and warm the blood.

A little reflection will show you that only a pure, medicinal stimulant will answer and that there is but one, which is Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

A little firmness when the druggist or grocer tries to sell you some so-called whiskey which has no merit, will save you much annoyance and perhaps your health.

A little constant use of this pure medicinal stimulant will tend to help your health and keep you in a condition to resist the sudden changes of the season.
